Escapee sought as possible 'slasher'

Killed family of five 15 years ago

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police revealed Saturday they were seeking as a possible suspect in the nine "slasher" murders a 32-year-old prison escapee who killed a family of five —mostly by cutting their throats —in El Cajon, Calif., 15 years ago.

Investigators said Carl A. Eder, who escaped from the State Correctional Institution at Tehachapi last November, "generally matched" the physical description of the "slasher" who began terrorizing Los Angeles' skid row area a month later.

"We consider him a possible suspect," said a police spokesman, "and we want him for questioning."

Police, meanwhile, engaged in the city's biggest manhunt since the 1969 Sharon Tate murders, said they have received more than 5,000 telephone calls from citizens concerning the slasher.

His ninth victim, Clyde C. Hay, 34, an employe of the National Cash Register Co., was found at his modest Hollywood apartment Friday afternoon, his throat slit to his spine.

Police examined an extensive report on Eder, which showed that he was born in the Rochester, N.Y., suburb of Irondequoit and was an academic standout in high school, especially in chemistry.

But his family was strict, keeping him inside the house most of the time, and Eder ran away from home at age 16 and hitchhiked to California.

While hitchhiking through El Cajon, Tom Pendergast, 37, an aircraft worker, picked him up and took him home to live with his family for six weeks.

On Dec. 8, 1958, Eder heard one of the children, Diane, 4, jumping on a bed and screaming. Eder threw her to the floor and was surprised by Mrs. Pendergast who came in the room.

According to the police files, Eder went to the garage and got a gun, then shot the woman to death and used a knife to slit the throats of Diane and Allen, 2.

As he was piling the bodies in the bathroom, two other children, David, 9, and Thomas, 6, entered the house and Eder slit their throats and added their bodies to the pile.

Police said he was preparing to leave home when Pendergast arrived. Eder did not kill him, but forced him to drive to east San Diego where Eder got out and boarded a bus.

Eder was arrested several days later and after his conviction, was sentenced to two consecutive life prison terms. He escaped from the Tehachapi facility while on an unsupervised farm work project outside the prison walls.

A psychiatric report earlier said Eder was capable of repeating his crimes if upset.

The Los Angeles "slasher" killings first started in the skid row area, where the killer found seven victims, then he moved his grisly terror to Hollywood where he claimed two victims in a matter of hours.

Police warned that the killer, who they said apparently kills out of sexual frustration, has broken his original pattern of taking the lives of weak, aging and ill skid row derelicts and "can strike anytime, anywhere."

POSSIBLE "SLASHER" SUSPECT

Los Angeles Police revealed Saturday they're seeking Carl A. Eder as a possible suspect in the "slasher" murders. Now 32, Eder, shown at the age of 16 in 1958, is a prison escapee who killed a family of five—mostly by cutting their throats — in El Cajon 15 years ago.

Ford asks to spend billion dollars a day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Saturday he will ask Congress to spend $349 billion —"almost $1 billion a day" —next fiscal year, including record peacetime deficit spending of $1 billion a week.

The President warned that his projected $52 billion deficit could swell to $70 billion if lawmakers do not approve his anti-recession budget cuts.

"I will walk the extra mile and give all of my strength to getting the national economy in shape," Ford told reporters in a brief, personal preview of the budget he will send Congress Monday.

"I will aks the Congress to walk that extra mile with me so that together we will lead the country with strength and purpose to a fuller life for all Americans," he said.

He said the budget includes no new government programs other than energy spending. It covers fiscal 1976, which begins July 1, 1975.

Ford, speaking at a budget briefing for reporters in the State Department auditorium, did not go into many specifics. But he strongly defended his proposal for the biggest deficit on record other than $54.9 billion in 1943 at the peak of World War II.

"It is a big budget, calling for expenditures of $349 billion —almost $1 billion a day," said Ford.

Ford said the deficits anticipated in both 1975 and 1976 would result largely from the combination of reduced federal tax revenues because of the recession, and a sharp rise in government spending in unemployment benefits and other assistance.

"In short, if the economy were operating at the rate of only a year ago, I would not be forecasting such a large difference between revenues and expenditures," he said. "In fact, we would have balanced budgets both this year and next."

The President voiced distaste for such enormous deficit spending —the amount the government would borrow to make up revenue shortfalls — but said it was necessary in 1976 to get the country's staggering economy going again.

"I am resolved to take those steps that will make such deficits unnecessary in the future. That requires, most of all, the restoration of a vigorous economy in this country," he said.

"We must recognize that, in times like these, it is good national policy both to provide financial support to those unemployed and to introduce a measured amount of additional stimulus into the private economy by a tax reduction.

"My budget ... does just that."

Spending for social welfare programs, such as Social Security and medicare, are getting out of hand and must be brought under control, Ford said.

He already has proposed a 5 per cent ceiling on increases for all government aid programs tied to consumer prices and he indicated Saturday that many of his recommendations for the $17 billion in budget cuts would fall in this area.

11 survive champagne flight

Five killed in plane crash

HOUSTON (UPI) — A champagne flight carrying middle-income Oklahomans to an expense paid weekend to promote a lakeside resort development ended Saturday in the crash of their plane in a muddy field. Five of the 16 persons aboard were killed.

The pilot, copilot, a land salesman and two potential customers died in the twisted, upside down wreckage of the twin-engine aircraft which was making an instrument landing in foggy, rainy weather at Houston Intercontinental Airport. It crashed short of the runway.

Ten passengers were hospitalized, two in serious condition. Another was treated and released from a hospital and six rescue workers were treated in hospitals for inhalation of airplane fuel fumes.

Most of the customer group were from Tulsa and Sapulpa, Okla., and were being treated by the Horizon Corp., to the expense paid trip to a luxurious resort development on Lake Livingston. The plane left Tulsa Friday night.

Linda Little, 25, of Sapulpa, who was in satisfactory condition at a hospital, said the trip went wrong from the beginning.

"They paid for the flying both ways," she said. "We were supposed to have had a champagne flight, but all we had were sandwiches. Everybody was pretty well high when they (the plane) got there anway.

The flight run into fog and rain attempting to land at Huntsville near the development, and was diverted to Houston. The National Weather Service said at the time of the crash at 3:08 a.m. the ceiling was 100 feet obscured with a visibility of one-half mile.

The plane sliced through trees and crashed upside down in a boggy field two and a half miles west of the airport.

Fire damages home in area

Engine companies from Pomona and Claremont quickly knocked down a fire which heavily damaged a two-story house at Ft. Lewis Drive and Sumner Avenue, Pomona, Saturday night.

Firemen who responded to the 9:35 p.m. alarm discovered flames shooting through the roof. The fire apparently started in a first-floor dining room, but the cause was undetermined.

Firemen said that no one was home and could not immediately say who lived in the house.

The fire, seen from a great distance, attracted many viewers who stood in the 40-degree weather to watch the flames. A "for sale" sign was on the front lawn.

Arson investigators were called in.

Two drown, others missing

Flash floods force 2,000 to flee from Texas town

By United Press International

Flash flooding from nightlong rains drowned at least two persons, drove thousands from their homes and caused millions of dollars of damage in Naccagdoches, Tex., Saturday.

Two creeks jumped their banks, destroying or damaging homes in their path.

"This came up all at once," Fire Chief Norman Williams said. "There was just a torrent of water coming down the creek. It rose so fast we didn't have time to get the people out."

Police said two elderly women drowned when their rescue boat capsized and five others were listed as missing by police and feared dead.

"We had six recue boats turn over in that current —good, big boats, and then some of the people just panicked and turned the boats over themselves," Williams said.

The eight inch rains ended during the afternoon, and residents set about salvaging their belongings. Police estimated that 2,000 persons were driven from their homes. The raging water roared through new $3 million athletic complex on the Stephen F. Austin State University, drowning the gym with 11-foot high waters.

Helms withheld letters on Watergate?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high-ranking official of the Central Intelligence Agency told a House subcommittee in 1973 that Richard Helms, while agency director, ordered him to withhold Watergate information from the Justice Department during the first six weeks following the June, 1972, breakin, the New York Times reported in its Sunday editions.

The newspaper said the charge was made in what was the previously unpublished testimony of Howard J. Osborne, who appeared before a House intelligence subcommittee in May, 1973.

Osborne was director of security for the CIA before retiring in late 1973. In late June, 1972, Osborne had been assigned by Helms as the official in charge of coordinating the agency's communications with the FBI about Watergate.

The Times said that Osborne told the subcommittee that Helms allegedly decided that a series of letters sent to the agency by convicted Watergate burglar James W. McCord Jr. should not be forwarded to the Justice Department.

The letters, sent between July 29, 1972 and January, 1973, the Times said, warned the CIA that officials of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President were planning to contend that the break-in was an agency operation.

The Times said that Helms made his decision in the first six weeks after the break-in on June 17, 1972, when the agency was under subpoena from the Justice Department to forward "all communications" related to Watergate.

Osborne also told the panel, the newspaper said, that Helms further directed that the FBI not be allowed to interview CIA employe Karl Wagner, who had knowledge that then presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman had authorized the CIA to establish a working relationship with E. Howard Hunt Jr. in July, 1971.

Man shot in abbey incident

GRESHAM, Wis. (UPI) — A man was shot and seriously wounded Saturday night outside the National Guard perimeter surrounding the Indian-occupied Alexian Brothers abbey near here, Shawano County Sheriff Robert Montour said.

It was the first serious gunshot injury since the armed Indians took over the novitiate Jan. 1.

Montour said the man was shot in the head about three-quarters of a mile outside the National Guard perimeter. He said the incident was under investigation and released no other details.

Donald Johnson, administrator of the nearby Shawano Community Hospital, reported a wounded man was admitted to the hospital in serious condition about 8:25 p.m. but was soon transferred to a hospital in Green Bay, Wis.

The incident came on the day Gov. Patrick J. Lucey bolstered security by calling in armored personnel carriers to man the perimeter. The reinforcements were called in to discourage angry area whites who have threatened to take the situation into their own hands to end it.

Stop-gap talks today

Permanente strike looms

LOS ANGELES (UPI) A federally mediated stop-gap negotiating session was scheduled Sunday to try to avert a strike by 4,000 hospital workers at the Kaiser Permanente hospital group in three Southern California counties.

The strike by hospital support workers not including doctors and nurses was to start at 6 a.m. (PST) Monday. The contract covering Local 399 of the Hospital and Service Employes Union expired Friday midnight.

"It would take a near miracle to stop or delay the strike at this point," said local union executive vice president Jim Zeliers.

Three-fourths of the hospital union workers, including nursing aides, housekeeping attendants, clerks, laboratory assistants, receptionists and other support workers voted 6-1 Friday night to walk off their jobs.

Affected are five hospitals, 14 clinics and other Kaiser Permanente facilities in Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties.

A Kaiser spokesman said a strike would curtail all rutine care but emergencies could be met. to re-schedule the strike, another 10 days's notice would have to be given by the union.

The hospital group's latest offer was ejected by the union.

Kaiser's offer was for a 20 per cent increase in wages and benefits, which the union said was still five per cent too low.

Kaiser employes in Northern California recently signed a contract providing a 23 per cent hike and a union spokesman said the southland workers want to catch up with the employes in the northern part of the state.

The Los Angeles County AFL-CIO council endorsed the strike and said it would ask all unions to observe picket lines.

County health officials in Los Angeles said the 10 county hospitals were being prepared to handle Kaiser patients if necessary.

Rising oil prices, another embargo in case of war

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rising oil prices and continued tension in the Middle East were predicted Saturday by Abulla Bishara, Kuwait's Ambassador to the United States.

At a news conference, Bishara said also the possibility of another oil embargo by the Arab states cannot be discounted.

He was in Los Angeles to speak Saturday night before the International College of Surgeons.

"If war breaks out next year, and I'm sure there might be a war," he said, "I don't rule out the possibility of imposing another embargo."

He said he was not optimistic the tension could be eased in view of Israel's posture.

"I think what they want is peace and territory and the denial of the rights of the Palestinians," he said.

"They say that parts of the Golan Heights are not negotiable, Jerusalem is non-negotiable. I don't think that such statements are a prescription for peace, but, on the contrary, are an invitation to war."

The Ambassador gave little hope for a decrease or even a stabilization on the price of oil despite an oil price freeze agreed upon for 1975 by the Oil Producing and Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"You cannot bring down the price of oil while inflation is running high at five per cent," Bishara said.

"You cannot really even keep the price of oil down or frozen while the prices of other manufactured goods are skyrocketing," he said.

He said also he didn't think the United States could become energy independent until at least the mid 1980s.

Students march on U.S. embassy

LISBON (UPI) — A crowd of left-wing students tried to March on the American embassy Friday after troops sealed off the city's main square to prevent demonstrations there.

A police spokesman said an estimated 500 students got to within a few blocks of the U.S. embassy before being dispersd peacefully by officers.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A freshman congressman Saturday called for a congressional investigation into the "get-rich-buick" career of Spiro T Agnew.

Rep. Ronald M. Mottl, D-Ohio, said the former vice president and former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst should be summoned to testify in a public hearing about their activities as consultants to foreign investors.

"Agnew," Mottl said "is apparently on his way to becoming a multi-millionaire by peddling influence and helping Arab investors buy control of American coal mines, real estate and industry.

Mottl also said that Congress should consider legislation to bar former public officials from "selling their knowledge of government operations to alien investors, and also to prevent threatened takeover of vital American resources and industry by foreign capital."

Mottl called for the investigation in a letter to Rep. Henry Reuss, chairman of the House Banking Committee.

U.S. grants $25 million aid

Gromyko arrives in Syria

By United Press International

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko flew to the Middle East Saturday for talks with Syrian and Egyptian leaders only a few days before the expected arrival of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in search of peace.

In Washington, State Department officials said the United States will grant Syria $25 million in economic air in an effort to convince Damascus to follow a moderate course in the Middle East.

At the same time, the Israeli national radio said the United States is holding up weapons deals with Israel in hopes it, too, will take a moderate stance and surrender some more of the Sinai in a troop withdrawal agreement with Egypt.

Gromyko said on arrival in Damascus he was confident his 48-hour visit would help strengthen Syrian-Soviet relations and contribute to the establishment of a "just peace for all of the countries in the Middle East."

Diplomatic sources said Gromyko was invited to Damascus and Cairo to hear the Syrian and Egyptian stand on negotiations with Kissinger, due in the Middle East around Feb. 10.

Gromyko met with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam and was scheduled to meet President Hafez Assad, government sources said. He may also talk with Palestinian Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat.

Gromyko's visit before Kissinger's arrival underscored the Soviets' determination to have a say in any eventual Arab-Israeli peace settlement, the sources said.

The Israeli radio said the U.S. holdups in supplying sophisticated weaponry were expected to last until after Kissinger launches the next round of his "shuttle diplomacy" in the Middle East. The Tel Aviv report quoted American officials as saying the delays are technical, but cited souces in Washington as seeing "a connection between the promise to supply Israel with modern F14 and F15 planes and a settlement that would involve a withdrawal from the mountain passes of the Sinai."

Extra food stamps for unborn child

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge Thursday ordered that extra food stamps be given to a pregnant Daly City woman to provide nourishment for her unborn child.

The Department of Agriculture was told to give $38 in additional stamps to Pamela Hickman in what authorities said was the first ruling of its type in the nation.

U.S. District Judge George H. Harris ordered that the unborn baby be treated as a separate, living human being, so that Mrs. Hickman may receive food stamps for two persons.

If tax override fails

Chaffey board to determine who and what will get ax

Chaffey school board members, when they meet Monday at 7 p.m., will be asked by the administration to outline staff and service cuts to be made should the district's March 4 tax override fail.

"It will be necessary for the board to either accept or reject our proposals for budget reduction, determine whether it will be necessary to reduce the program, review lists of specific kinds of services to be discontinued, and adopt a resolution that will provide for dismissal of employes resulting there from," School Supt. Allan G. Smith said.

If certificated (employes teachers and administrators) are to be released as a result of budget reduction, they must be notified prior to March 15, Smith said.

The district, in Proposition C on the March 4 ballot, is proposing a three-step tax increase. Passage of the measure would mean present programs could be continued next year. Defeat would mean cutbacks totaling some $1,863,000.

Increases being asked amount to 54 cents per $100 of assessed valuation in 1975, 70 cents in 1976 and 83 cents in 1977.

The administration will recommend approval of a plan for certain improvements on the Chaffey High School campus.

This plan calls for the relocation of the district personnel into Tower Hall, the business education department into the district administration building, and the development of plans for building or leasing new warehouse space.

It also includes the development of the South Hall basement for the art department and the completion of the Fourth Street area by the new math-science building.

Real flying tiger terrifies surprised New York crewmen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sheridan, a flying tiger, was the master of her own plane for nearly 11 hours Saturday.

No one was injured during Sheridan's escapade, but cargo handlers had a few tense moments when they tried to unload the plane and found a Bengal tigress staring them in the face.

Sheridan escaped a steel-strapped crate aboard the plane leaving another, less playful, tiger in the cage. The startled cargo handlers slammed the plane's door before Sheridan could get out of the Boeing 707.

Joseph Marcan, Sheridan's trainer, boarded the Pan American jet in a cargo hangar hours later and managed to talk her back into the cage.

Two keepers from the Bronx Zoo stood by with a tranquilizer gun, but it was not needed.

Marcan was complimented on his courage in entering the plane. When a newsman remarked, "But I suppose you've known her a long time," the trainer smiled and replied, "I saw her for the first time Monday."

Three-year-old Sheridan was one of five Bengal tigers weighing 250 to 300 pounds each who stopped over in New York en route from Frankfurt to Santo Domingo.

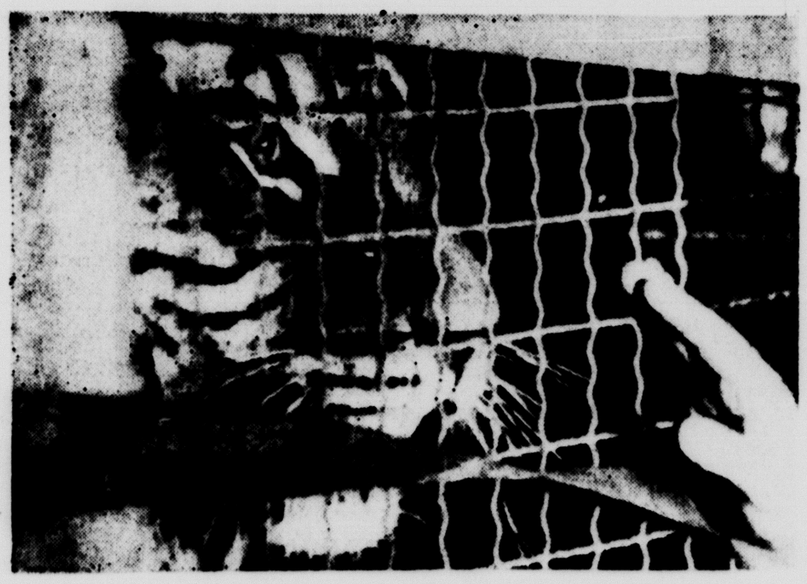
"It's a 1,000-to-one shot," he said.

"When we opened the door (of the plane), we saw the head and shoulders of this great big tiger looking at us from over one of the cargo containers," said Pan Am Cargo Operations Supervisor John Duarte.

"It was just sitting there staring at us," he said. "Well, we just slammed down the plane's door and ran off like a covey of quail."



SHERIDAN BACK IN HER CAGE

TODAY'S THE DAY

Thousands of groundhogs indigenous to the Eastern U.S. and a like number of their cousins, the Western Marmot, were set to peek from their burrows today and forecast an early or late spring. Southlanders, shivering from a 5-day cold snap, hope the little critters do not see their shadows today which would mean and early spring and return to warm weather. But even though locked in the middle of winter, thousands of valley evergreen pear trees already are in bloom with some peach tree buds beginning to pop. A few Southland crocuses, too, are showing early blooms.

Bullet can't be removed; charge may be dropped

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charges against a suspected freeway sniper may be dropped because doctors say it is too dangerous to remove a bullet from a 14-year-old girl's brain to use as evidence.

James Wallace Langford, 27, Los Angeles, was arraigned earlier for the Thanksgiving Day random shooting of Naomi Montijo.

The girl, with her family, was en route on the Harbor Freeway to the home of relatives for Thanksgiving dinner when she was struck in the right temple by a bullet. She has been in a coma since then.

Doctors at Martin Luther King Jr. Hospital said although she was taken off the critical list last Wednesday, it is still too dangerous to surgically remove the bullet at this time.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Kanner said charges against Langford will be dropped next Friday because investigators cannot tie him to the shooting unless they can determine the bullet was fired from his gun.

Actor Barry in real-life crime drama

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Donald "Red" Barry, known both as Red Ryder and for his role in TV police shows, played a real-life crime chaser role Friday night by catching a purse snatching suspect.

Los Angeles police have credited the 55-year-old Barry with chasing down and catching a 16-year-old youth who had earlier eluded a wide-scale police search near Barry's home here.

The youth and three companions had reportedly terrorized three women, knocking them down and taking their purses while rampaging through a North Hollywood shopping center.

The four fled the scene in a stolen car, but three of them were captured by police after they abandoned the vehicle. After an extensive search through the neighborhood, the police gave up the hunt.

But later that night Barry's wife saw a youth darting down a street and awakened her husband, who grabbed his pistol and took up pursuit.

Barry spotted the suspect running into a garage under an apartment and cornered him, but Barry's wife said it was another hour before police returned to the scene to take the youth into custody.

Father slain trying to aid wounded officer

Funds pour in for 6 orphaned children

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of dollars were pouring in Friday to a special fund set up by police for the six orphaned children of a man who died while trying to help a wounded officer.

"There's just no way of estimating how much has come in so far," a police spokesman said. "It's coming in from all over the city."

Lt. Vincent Cooke, president of the Lieutenant's Benevolent Association, said in a statement that his organization would vote on a "substantial donation in the neighborhood of $5,000" at a meeting next Wednesday.

The city's Supreme Court Uniformed Officers Association, an organization of 600 officers who work in State Supreme Court throughout the five boroughs, said it was donating $1,000 as "the least we could do for the children of a man who came to the aid of an officer in distress."

Another $2,500 will come from the Police Relief Fund, police said.

The "Fund for the Walker Children" was set up by the Police Benevolent Association after Frank Walker, a 28-year-old disabled widower from Jackson Heights, Queens, was shot to death while trying to aid wounded Police Officer John DiCembre.

DiCembre had been shot in the chest by a prisoner he was guarding at St. Vincent's Hospital Wednesday night. Walker was walking through a corridor after visiting a relative at the hospital and struggled with the would-be escapee — Raymond Tubar, 19 — before he, himself, was shot to death.

Breaks down after five-hour ordeal

Cop talks fugitive into freeing hostages, giving up

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — Deputy Police Inspector Tom Johnson, who endured five hours of screaming threats from an armed fugitive and the fear he would be shot by fellow policemen, persuaded the man to release two young women hostages and surrender Saturday.

When the ordeal was over, Johnson, an ex-Marine sergeant who was a prisoner of war in World War II, broke down and cried.

"I'm just damn glad the girls are okay," said the husky officer. The incident started at the St. Joseph bus station Friday night and ended in the predawn chill Saturday at an isolated roadblock in the north part of Kansas City.

Johnson, 53, a 25-year veteran of the force and a father of four, said he believed at one point his fellow officers might kill him accidentally in the effort to capture the fugitive.

"I was real scared," he said. "I thought he was going to kill us both. I truly thought some of the police officers would probably kill us out there. I thought the officers were sincere in saying we weren't going any farther.

"The guy was shouting obscenities and he was pointing a gun at the girls and threatening to kill them."

State authorities were preparing charges against James Beardsley, 22.

They were also consulting with police in Beardsley's hometown of Lincoln, Neb., about an incident early Friday in which Beardsley and his brother Robert, 24, allegedly overpowered a police officer who had come to their apartment asking about a traffic accident.

The hostages, Barbara Lee Cooken 21, of Omaha, Neb., and Grace Ann Mein, 19, of Raytown, Mo., were shaken but unhurt and hugged and kissed Johnson afterwards.

Johnson had volunteered to drive the gunman and his two hostages from the bus station out of the city in an unmarked police car provided at the man's demand. They crisscrossed northwest Missouri and northeast Kansas for three hours on county roads and interstate highways.

"We just drove and drove and drove," Johnson said. "I kept asking him to let the girls go. They hadn't hurt him. He called me by my first name the whole time."

About 2:20 a.m., Johnson said, he finally persuaded the man to release his hostages in the Parkville area north of Kansas City. About 20 minutes later they reached the roadblock on U.S. 169 and the gunman surrendered. Some 60 officers and 10 patrol cars had gathered at the roadblock set up by the FBI and Kansas City police.

The Beardsley brothers were accosted by policemen Friday night in a bar across the street from the bus station in a rundown area on the south side of downtown St. Joseph, a city of 78,000 on the Missouri River. After a scuffle Robert Beardsley was arrested a few blocks away and James Beardsley jumped aboard a Continental Trailways bus preparing to depart for Kansas City.

He grabbed the two young women, saying, "You're going for a ride, honey," and forced them to the back of the bus. But the other 30 passengers said he did not object when they left the bus.

Reagan, yes: Rocky, no

Goldwater on GOP's '76 chances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater believes the Republican Party can make a comeback in 1976 if it displays "dynamic and aggressive" leadership at the top.

The Arizona conservative suggested in a UPI interview that former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California might be the man to rebuild the party, and also said the GOP could use a more politically experienced and articulate national party chairman than Mary Louise Smith, who presently holds that post.

Goldwater also indicated that had he chosen to challenge Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott, he "possibly" could have deposed him from the post last month.

But Goldwater said he dissuaded a number of his Republican colleagues from nominating him in the party caucus.

"Maybe I could have won," he said. "Possibly I could have. But I've already got enough work to handle in my committee assignments.

"I told them that Hugh may not run for re-election when his term is up in 1976," the senator added. "I'll take another look at it (leadership post) then."

Goldwater also discounted talk of a conservative third party for 1976, and said "most conservatives will support President Ford.

"He won't have 100 per cent of their support," he said, "but most of them will support him if he runs."

Goldwater acknowledged concern among some Republicans that Ford is too preoccupied with the problems of the country to give much attention to rebuilding the GOP after its 1974 election defeat.

"This rebuilding the party will require top people in the higher levels of the party," he said.

"I frankly think this is a job Ronald Reagan can do," the senator said. "He's very well liked in the party, has the time to travel around the country, and can pull the party together."

Reagan, already making tentative feelers about a possible run at the nation's top job next year, will be featured speaker at a Conservative Political Action Conference banquet in Washington Feb. 15.

Goldwater also said he believes Ford will run in 1976, but if he does not, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller would have "no chance" of winning the party's presidential nomination.

"You'd have the united efforts of the conservatives in the party against him."

"No, I don't think he'd have any chance at all," he repeated.

Goldwater said he sees the GOP "making a comeback in 1976 ... but to do so we've got to get out on the hustings and fight for our party."

He said some conservatives did feel "shut out" of the Ford administration as a result of the selection of Rockefeller for vice president and other liberal appointments.

"But I don't have that feeling," said Goldwater, who voted against Rockefeller's confirmation.

Switzerland is Forum theme

The forum meets at 7:45 p.m. in the Education Center auditorium at 800 S. Garey Ave. Seats are available at $1 each.

Butler, a photographer with broadcasting experience, shot this film which gives viewers a look at Switzerland and its people, geography, history, economy, government, tourist highlights and sports and shows.

Switzerland, Butler said, remains crime, social upheavals, wars and relatively unouched by the ills of crime, social upheavels, wars and unemployment. He thinks the "Swiss perspective" is responsible and should be studied by the rest of the world.

MSAC adult education classes increase 600%

A sixfold increase over last semester in the adult education program of Mt. San Antonio College was announced by Charles Buey, director of the college's evening division.

More than 60 courses, ranging from the causes of inflation to the role of women, understanding children and Chinese art, are being offered by the college free of charge, starting this week.

The courses also include anthropology, African language and culture, school bus driver training, reading clinics, interpersonal communications and many others.

Adult education classes are more flexible than the certificated college courses which carry college credit, there is no need for preregistration; those who are interested may enroll on the first night of classes. And there are no required examinations.

Those who want more information on the adult education program may telephone the college at 595-2211, ext 321.

The adult education program began at the college two years ago with six courses. It became enlarged this year with the appointment of Joesph Payne as full-time director of the program.

Plans are to offer more than 100 courses next year.

5,000-year-old breed

A pharaoh hound revival

LONDON (UPI) — You can see them pictured in ancient Egyptian tombs—sleek, greyhound-like dogs with curled tails and pointed ears. These days you might also see them in your neighborhood park.

They are called pharoah hounds, a breed of dog that's been around for some 5,000 years but suddenly finds its popularity spreading far and wide.

Malta has named the pharaoh its national dog. Queen Margrethe of Denmark has one. In four years 125 have been registered in the United States. A Canadian pharaoh hound club has been organized.

Britain's pharaoh club, whose patron is Princess Antoinette of Monaco, met not long ago to discuss the approval by the British Kennel Club of championship class "standards" for the pharaoh.

"Without question the pharaoh hound is the oldest domesticated dog in recorded history," club secretary Monica Still told the meeting.

She described statues and paintings on tombs dating to 2300 B.C., and beyond, by which scholars came to know the dog of ancient Egypt's kings. None of them dreamed that the dog still lived.

"But this dog is the same today as it was then," Miss Still said. They certainly look alike, those ancient Egyptian depictions and the 300-odd pharaohs now in Britain.

They have the same greyhound-like deep chest, pinched waist and long slender legs. Both ancient and modern dogs are stockier than a greyhound, with a blunter face and towering, pointed ears.

The modern pharaoh comes in only one color—a rich reddish chestnut, splashed with white on chest and toes. An ancient letter dating from Egypt's 19th dynasty talks of "the red long-tailed dog" in terms every modern pharaoh owner recognizes.

The dog of the pharaohs owes its preservation not to Egypt, but to Malta.

Phoenician traders, so the theory runs, brought the pharaoh to the isolated Maltese islands before the time of Christ. It has been known on Malta for 2,000 years.

The Maltese call it the "kelb tal fenek," or rabbit dog. So skillfully has the pharaoh hunted rabbits on Malta, and especially on the sister island of Gozo, that the Maltese carefully kept its breed pure.

"That's what attracted me," said Mrs. Rita Sacks of Huntington, N.Y., who founded the American Pharaoh club in 1970.

"I've been in dobermans for 25 years, and I've seen what too much show breeding can do," Mrs. Sacks said. "Here was a breed that was pure and unsullied."

Mrs. Sacks is now the enthusiastic owner of "about 10" pharaohs. At the British club meeting she took part in a panel discussing a pharaoh owner's "great responsibility to keep faith with 5,000 years of true breeding."

Pharaoh owners stress their dogs' antiquity by naming them for ancient Egyptian kings and queens.

"We have Ramses and Seti and Nefertiti and Cleopatra," Miss Still said, "and we have Fred"—Fred of Safi, brought from Malta by the pharaoh club treasurer.

Mrs. Sacks said the pharaoh's new popularity was not entirely because of its lithe beauty and distinctive individuality.

"There's something magic about them," she said. "It's an overworked word, but a pharaoh has charisma. They're just simply marvelous dogs."

PHARAOH dog (bottom) compared to a drawing taken from an early Egyptian dynasty tomb, shows no difference after more than 5,000 years. U.S. and British fanciers are staging a revival of breed.

Also use caulking compound to block up cracks and holes in your attic.—E.G., Neegaunee, Mich.

Bananas are one of the less-expensive fruits and are not limited by a special season.

If you happen to buy more than you can use before they get too ripe, to enjoy, don't throw them away. Instead, treat the family, your friends, or just yourself to homemade banana bread.—A.S., York, Neb.

One year later

Where is Patty?

By ROBERT STRAND

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A year after her kidnaping, where is Patricia Hearst?

Last Feb. 4 the granddaughter of publishing titan William Randolph Hearst was carried screaming from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment. Two months later in a stunning announcement she said she was renouncing her family and staying with her abductors, a shadowy band of Maoist terrorists calling themselves the Symbionese Liberation Army. She took the name of Tania.

Miss Hearst has eluded the most massive hunt by the FBI and other agencies in the nation's history. The FBI has virtually no clues.

Although she was last heard in a tape recording June 7, she and two fellow fugitives, Emily and William Harris, were last seen the night of May 16 and morning of May 17.

Their presence was disclosed by an audacious mistake that attracted an army of police officers. Emily Harris, 27, was paying for $31.50 worth of camping clothing in a sports store when a clerk grabbed her husband, William, 30, for stuffing a pair of socks in his sleeve.

A pistol fell out of Harris' pocket, the clerk got a handcuff on one wrist, and across the street, according to witnesses, Miss Hearst opened fire with an automatic rifle from a van. All three escaped.

That was the night of the fugitives' 12-hour drive, when the trio seized another van and its driver, Tom Matthews, 18, and went looking for a way to get the manacle off Harris. Miss Hearst talked freely with Matthews before his release.

Later that night Frank R. Sutter picked up two young women hitchikers believed to be Miss Hearst and Mrs. Harris. Sutter was forced at gunpoint to drive a half hour before he was released. The car was found a half mile away.

The morning of May 17, police moved in force on a small house in a black ghetto. It was empty but evidence suggested that the fugitives had been there.

A few hours later, hundreds of police surrounded a house in Watts. Automatic rifle fire from inside was met by a fearsome barrage from police, and towering flames burned the structure to ashes.

The bodies of six members of the Symbionese Liberation Army were found. Among the dead was their leader, Donald DeFreeze, 30, a black exconvict called General Field Marshal Cinque.

From Tania's view, other members of the radical left were not trustworthy. Radical elements were angered by SLA violence, including the alleged assassination of a popular black school superintendent, and felt their cause had been harmed.

At the time, almost every Californian had a picture of Patricia Hearst videoed in his forehead. Hardly a van or a car carrying two young women and a man could move far without police scrutiny.

The fugitives somehow found a hiding place where, like millions of others, they probably watched the Watts shootout and inferno on television.

Miss Hearst gave new insight into her adventure since her kidnaping from the apartment she shared with her fiance, Steven Weed. She proclaimed a love for Willie Wolfe, 22, known in the SLA as Kujo, calling him "the gentlest, the most beautiful man I know." Wolfe died in the shootout.

That left Miss Hearst with the Harris couple, who had become radicals during a stay in Berkeley. They were people she might have felt comfortable with in many circumstances.

Emily, a sorority girl and top student at the University of Indiana, had taught in high school after graduation. She married Harris in a religious ceremony.

Harris grew up in a middle class family on the edge of a suburban golf course near Indianapolis. He has a masters degree in urban education and was a Marine veteran of Vietnam.

Where could they hide?

Buying camping clothing suggested the Sierra mountains. But the mountains present problems of stashing a vehicle, and in remote areas an occupied house or smoke over the trees eventually invites the curious.

Going abroad involves false documents and going through customs. In most foreign countries Americans can be conspicuous, and their papers are inspected at borders.

No matter where a fugitive hides, he still may need a dentist, a traffic infraction brings the unknown, and birth control pills need a prescription. The FBI has circularized dentists and pharmacists, as well as the traffic police.

Since here kidnaping Patricia Hearst has changed dramatically. In her tape recordings, she gradually turned from concern for her parents to criticism of her father's $2 million food giveaway ransom, which she called "crumbs."

After two months of captivity, during which as a prisoner she often was tied and blindfolded, she announced April 3 that she had become "a soldier" of the SLA. With profanity she attacked her father, newspaper publisher Randolph Hearst, as an oppressor, a pig and an enemy of the people. Later she said her fiance was "a sexist, ageist pig" whom she never wanted to see again.

Tania was among an SLA gang that held up a San Francisco bank April 15 for $10,690 and wounded two bystanders. At the time federal officials and the family doubted she was a willing participant.

The FBI has rejected theories that Miss Hearst, a quiet but firm rebel like many of her generation, was a willing actor in a staged kidnaping.

A number of psychiatrists have dismissed speculation that she was brainwashed. They favor theories that in isolation and danger, a personality can alter rapidly and drastically— especially if she associates with persons of similar age and harbors longings for change and guilt about her wealth.

What does Tania think now? Why have eight months gone by without a single recording? Does she ponder the suggestion of her parents, sisters and others—that she could better dramatize her new cause by surrendering and staying alive?

In her recordings, Tania has stated that "the enemy still wants me dead," a fear that she would be killed by police. There also are 21 felony charges filed against her.

Meanwhile, FBI agent in charge, Charles W. Bates, says his men are rechecking every angle, returning again and again to persons who might be contacted by the fugitives.

Miss Hearst's father observed after the May 17 shootout that the killing of six SLA members had inspired a more sympathetic attitude toward the SLA among other young radicals.

With their help, he said his daughter could "go underground. I think forever."

Patty's parents still hope she'll surrender

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The parents of Patricia Hearst, who was kidnaped a year ago to start one of the most bizarre cases in American criminal history, said this week they still hope she will surrender voluntarily.

"The hardest thing Mrs. Hearst and I have to bear is not knowing whether Patty is alive and well," Randolph A. Hearst said in a statement issued five days before the Feb. 4 anniversary of her kidnaping from her Berkeley apartment.

"We believe she is alive and in this country, but since the last tape we have had no word of any kind. However, we do have hope —hope she is well and hope that she will eventually decide to come in voluntarily and stop being a fugitive."

Miss Hearst, 20, was last heard from last June 7, in a tape recording left at a Los Angeles radio station. She is wanted on nearly two dozen federal and state criminal charges, including bank robbery, kidnaping and assault.

"I don't believe she would be sentenced to a jail term although she might have to face more than one trial, and the experience would undoubtedly be unpleasant," Hearst said.

"The only thing we want is that she be able to live her own life as a free woman and not go on indefinitely hunted by the police.

Market's happiest days are here again

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market concluded the best January in its history this week, with prices rising sharply in the heaviest weekly trading in the 183-year history of the New York Stock Exchange.

"That was the week that was," one analyst quipped. Many brokers smiled for the first time in months: NYSE officials estimated transactions on the exchange this week totaled $3.45 billion and brokerage commissions on this figure naturally will be tremendous. There was a cautious feeling that "happy days are here again."

For the week, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 37.08 points to 703.69, its best weekly gain since it climbed 73.61 Oct. 7-11, 1974. And for the first month of the new year, the Dow had climbed 87.43 points, or 14.19 per cent, the best gain ever in that month. Last year, it gained only 4.69 points in January.

Other averages also had a strong week. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 4.00 to 76.98. The New York Stock Exchange common stock index gained 2.07 to 40.91.

Advances utterly routed declines, 1,598 to 293, among the 2,012 issues crossing the tape, demonstrating the breadth of the surge. A big difference between the gain this week and in others recently was the fact blue chips and glamors were big winners, whereas before the lower-priced stocks paced the advance.

STOCK MARKET FLOOR SHOWS FRENZIED PACE THIS WEEK

The big story this week was the volume, which soared to 145,689,486 shares, the best weekly turnover in the history of the NYSE. The previous record was 110,616,000 in the five-day period the week ended Feb. 8-12, 1971. Volume last week totaled 82,177,640 shares. During the same week a year ago, it amounted to 69,549,090 shares.

The 32,130,000 shares traded Monday were the most ever traded in a single day. Tuesday's 31,760,000 moved into second place on the all-time list. The 29,740,000 traded Thursday ranked fourth and the 27,410,000 shares traded Wednesday seventh.

The volume for the entire month of January totaled 431,600,000 shares, the most ever in a single month. The previous record was 422,800,000 traded just a fluke in October, 1973.

Bank failures spark talk of more '75 financial shocks

By LEONARD CURRY
UPI Business Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The demise of two national banks in January indicates financial institutions may be headed for more economic shocks if the recession persists too deeply into 1975.

The major causes of bank failures in the past 15 years were fraud, embezzlement and improper loans to principals, but the long-term pattern has been shattered in the current recession.

Six banks have gone under in the past five months. Principal cause in half the cases was "manager weakness" in loan portfolios, according to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Three failures in five months because of bad loans contrasts sharply with only seven such failures in the previous 14 years, FDIC data showed.

Banks and their regulators prefer to work quietly out of the public eye. The Federal Reserve Board, for instance, guards its monetary actions for three months before releasing them in language so obtuse only economists and reporters for a few specialized publications understand what has happened.

But in an unusual departure from this rarified atmosphere Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns recently warned the banking system is stretched thinner than at any time in its history.

Burns said there were "disturbing trends in modern banking," in which holding companies acquire more and more banks to expand their reach and borrow money to increase their loan portfolios.

After making his observations to the American Bankers Association in late October, Burns retreated again to the marble sanctuary of the Federal Reserve headquarters. His warning gained weight in January when the Swope Parkway National Bank in Kansas City, Mo. and the giant Security National Bank of Long Island, N.Y. closed their doors.

Security, the nation's 55th largest bank with deposits of $1.4 billion, technically did not fail. The FDIC and the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency insist Security was merged with the Chemical Bank of New York.

But the emergency circumstances of the merger — consummated over a weekend —have caused critics to complain the federal banking regulators averted a failure on technical grounds alone.

"This is the case of a bank given no chance of surviving in a highly charged and highly suspicious economic environment," said Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., an influential member of the Senate Banking Committee.

McIntyre said the demise of Security "reflects the crisis of public confidence surrounding our financial institutions" in the current recession.

Security's decline followed by three months the failure of the Franklin National Bank of New York ($1.8 billion in deposits), the nation's largest banking disaster, and came only a year after the demise of the United States National Bank of San Diego ($1 billion in deposits). But Security was the first of the major banks to fall because of faulty lending practices.

The San Diego bank was involved in alleged fraudulent schemes by its principal owner, C. Arnholt Smith, and Franklin lost nearly $40 million in speculation on foreign currencies.

In addition to Security and Swope Parkway, the American Bank & Trust Co. of Orangeburg, S.C., also closed in recent months because of a bad loan portfolio. American Bank, South Carolina's sixth largest, suffered $60 million in loan defaults on real estate alone.

FDIC lists 63 bank failures between 1960 and Dec. 31, 1973, including 56 from embezzlement, fraud and improper loans to principal officers. The remaining seven failures were caused by faulty loans to non-bank individuals.

Since last September, six banks including Security have shut down. FDIC listed "manager weakness in portfolio" — a term for loans that went sour —as the cause of three including Security.

Uno numero llamar los bomberos o la policia para 1982

por TONY AULT

Para 1982, los residentes de siete ciudades del valley podran llamar a la policia o los bomberos, simplemente liscando el mismo numero, 911.

El llamado, probablemente, sera recibido en un punto de seguridad publica en el sotano del Departament de Policia en Ontario y referido a la agencia apropiada en seis segundos.

Un plan en el valle para establecer dicho sistema "PSAP", empleando el numero telefonico de emergencia 911 y ha sido sometido a la consideracion de la Division de Comunicaciones Del Departamento de Servicios Generales en California.

El plan sometido por George Brann, Administrador de Servicios Tecnicos del Departamento de Policia en Ontario, y Donald A. Griffen, Director de comunicaciones en Pomona, propuso que el punto de emergencia sea establecido en Ontario, para las ciudades de Ontario, Pomona, Montclair, Upland, Chino, Claremont, y La Verne.

Brann dijo que el sistema 911 reemplazaria las lineas individuales de siete digitos a la policia, bomberos, ambulancia y otros servicios de emergencia. Dijo que el numero 911 es corto y facil de recordar, y acortara el tiempo en la respuesta de emergencia eliminando dilacion dentre el tiempo de deteccion de un problema y el despacho de asistencia sin duplicarse los servicios.

Brann dijo que donde quiera que una persona viaje, puede tener la confianza de saber que el numero 911 le traera la ayuda apropiada en muy corto tiempo.

Brann explico que los operadores del PSAP seria probablemente ensenados en colegios locales, con la asistencia de la compania telefonica y seria cualificados en seis meses, aun cuando el estado de California pondria los requerimientos.

Dijo que el sistema 911 ya ha sido instalado en varias ciudades a travez de los Estados Unidos, y se ha probado excelente.

Apathy blue pencils valley voter registrations

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

Failures to vote last November has resulted in a 37 per cent reduction in Los Angeles County's voter registration list.

Officials deleted 1,212,385 names of persons who didn't vote in the general election. Such action is required by state law. This leaves 2,0858,609 residents still qualified to vote.

The reduction, however, was only 27 per cent in the valley communities of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Walnut and Diamond Bar.

Officials removed 27,621 names, thus leaving 75,955 still on the rolls.

Deadline for registration is today officially, but registration offices closed Friday and some city and county fire stations were open for registrations yesterday. No offices remain open today to reapply.

Countywide, the Democrats still lead the Republicans in registration — 1,-211,526 to 746,819. The Democrats also led the Republicans in the number of names deleted, 705,975 to 374,216.

Residents still registered to other parties include American Independent, 7,201; Peace and Freedom, 4,071; miscellaneous, 4,916; and declined to state, 84,076.

Officials gave this breakdown for valley communities:

CLAREMONT, 4,744 names removed, leaving 14,585 still registered. These include: Democrats, 6,733; Republicans, 6,871; American Independent, 30; Peace and Freedom, 68; miscellaneous, 27; and declined to state, 856.

LA VERNE, 2,443 names removed, leaving 8,225 still registered. These include: Democrats, 3,787; Republican, 3,975; American Independent, 34; Peace and Freedom, 15; miscellaneous, 15; and declined to state, 399.

SAN DIMAS, 2,699 names removed, leaving 8,014 still registered. These include: Democrats, 3,972; Republicans, 3,466; American Independent, 44; Peace and Freedom, 20; miscellaneous, 20; and declined to state, 492.

WALNUT, 1,001 names removed, leaving 3,060 registered voters. These include: Democrats, 1,446; Republicans, 1,408; American Independent, 15; Peace and Freedom, 6; miscellaneous, 6; and declined to state, 179.

DIAMOND BAR, 2,672, leaving 7,880 still registered. These include: Democrats, 3,423; Republicans, 3,958; American Independent, 28; Peace and Freedom, 15; miscellaneous, 7; and declined to state, 449.

Reduction of those registered to other parties throughout the county include American Independent, 6,547; Peace and Freedom, 9,783; miscellaneous, 9,267; and declined to state, 106,798.

Officials blamed public apathy in the November election as the main reason for the registration decline.

The county figure compares with the state where 3.5 million residents, most who failed to vote in November, were dropped from the registration list.

Shut your mouth and save some money

Residential customers of General Telephone making a limited number of local calls each month can be billed at a special lower rate beginning in April.

General Telephone was ordered to offer the measured local service (MLS) by the California Public Utilities Commission as a part of an overall rate case decision in November of last year, according to Jack M. King, area public affairs administrator for General Telephone.

Under the optional service being offered to residential customers, they would pay $3 per month for an allowance of 30 local calling units and five cents for each additional unit. A unit equals five minutes or any portion of five minutes and minutes are not cumulative. Thus, the 30-unit allowance could be exhausted by 30 individual calls of five minutes or less, by one call of 150 minutes or any combination in between, said King.

As it now stands residential customers now pay $5.75 per month for unlimited local calls.

In compliance with the PUC ruling, business customers who now pay $12.60 for unlimited local and extended area calling will be converted to MLS in May.

They will then be charged a basic rate of $7.65 monthly for 80 units of local calling. Additional units will be charged at the rate of five cents each.

King said residential customers will be informed of the option for MLS in a bill insert. For 90 days they will have the choice of switching to the new system without charge.

Council to act on revenue sharing projects

Pomona City Council will consider proposed community development programs and budget Monday night.

Projects, proposed following public workshops, total $2.8 million. They include $550,000 for beautification, $250,-000 for home improvement loans, $72,-000 for street lights, $100,000 for development of a new fire station, and $100,-000 for a multi-purpose facility.

The council will be asked to approve projects and okay preparation of final grant requests by March 31.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include an emergency ordiance establishing a moratorium on construction at the Phillips Ranch site in southwest Pomona.

The council gave tentative approval to the moratorium last week. The property involved has long been a source of controversy due to the extensive grading of hillsides on the site.

The council will also receive a report concerning a request by Cole-Schaefer Ambulance that the city join the county Emergency Aid Program (EAP).

FEARLESS CREATURES

NEWLY DESIGNED EMBLEM

New PVCH symbol accepted

In an attempt to establish a single identifying symbol to represent Pomona Valley Community Hospital in the community, the board of directors has adopted an official emblem.

Designed by Maushake Advertising Co. of Ontario, one of the three graphic art designers asked to submit ideas, the new "logo" is intended to capture the spirit of the organization and the services offered at the community hospital.

Ellson F. Smith, chairman of the board of directors, said the symbol "P" selected was chosen for its modern, bold styling which signifies the growth and solidarity of the hospital since its inception in 1899.

A discerning eye can discover the "V" as well as the "C" and "H" in the design which will be used on stationery, service awards and commemorative medallions given in appreciation to board members, staff and others who have served the hospital.

Still in the planning stage is a new sign using the design to be placed on the front of the hospital.

Valley jurist to reorganize Samoan courts

Commissiner A. J. Bernhardt, 58, who has served both in Pomona Superior and Municipal courts, has accepted a federal appointment to reorganize courts in America Samoa.

Samoa is a U.S. territory in the South Pacific. Its population is about 32,000 and the court stystem is administered by the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Bernhardt, a World War I naval aviator, said that when he learned that the department planned to modernize the Samoan court system, he applied for the post and got it. The system has general jurisdiction and is similar to California's Superior Court, he said. The assignment is for two years.

Bernhardt and his wife plan to move their entire household from Glendora to Samoa, a place he has never seen.

Friday was Bernhardt's last day as a commissioner in Pomona Municipal Court. He was assigned the post almost a year ago to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Houston A. Snidow. Bernhardt retired from the Pomona Superior Court post 1971 but took over the Municipal Court assignment at the request of the State Judicial Council.

Bernhardt is a graduate of Stanford University, the Harvard Law School and is a holder of a master of laws degree from USC.

Besides his Pomona assignments, he was city judge for Glendora, a judge of the Los Angeles Municipal Court, a commissioner of the Los Angeles Municipal Court and a commissioner in the Superior Court.

Foothill water storage tank

Cost of the project is estimated at $15,000.

The project calls for construction of a 30,000 gallon capacity galvanized steel water tank approximately 2½ miles northwest of the intersection of Foothill Boulevard and San Dimas Canyon Road.

The county flood control district, which designed the tank, will supervise consturction of it and handle its operation and maintenance upon completion.

The storage facility is expected to be in operation by June.

Controversial 'open space' classrooms drawing fire

By JON MORRIS
P-B Staff Writer

"If I have to throw myself down in front of a school bus, I hope the brakes work."

Parents in Chino have become so angry over a controversial new program called "open space" that they are ready to march, picket an elementary school and perhaps even stop a bus in its tracks.

And parents in San Dimas recently showed up en masse at a Bonita school board meeting to air their complaints over the same program at Lone Hill Intermediate School.

School officials, however, swear by the program, which is also known as "open classroom."

The progressive plan seems to be working in some valley districts, but in others, administrators are facing irate parents.

Basically, open space means no closed classrooms. In fact, it means no walls—strictly open space.

"You can run a traditional or innovative program with it, depending on what the staff is comfortable with," said Sam Burton, former principal of Glenmeade Elementry School, where the program began in the 1972-73 school year.

Students generally are grouped by ability, rather than by grades. Frequently, they work at their own pace. There are reading and math centers, and students attend them daily.

The program has been fairly innovative at Glenmeade School, and as Burton points out, the community can become uptight over new school plans.

Open classroom can mean 150 students being taught by five teachers, according to George Eubank, principal of Roosevelt Elementary School in Pomona, where the plan started last May. "In cases with a lot of students, there is lots of team teaching."

Eubank hasn't faced much controversy over the plan, and claims the program is doing very well, "beyond my wildest dreams."

He indicates Roosevelt has a good "management" situation, in which teachers carefully watch over students. "We have all kinds of innovative programs, but they're working."

School officials in Chinco haven't been as fortunate as Eubank.

Authorities have promised an in-depth probe at Glenmeade School, but some parents have threatened to picket if the investigation becomes a whitewash.

Marilyn Roach, the parent who said she may throw herself in front of a school bus, indicates if the district evaluation shows everything is "hunky dory" at Glenmeade, there will be picketing.

The parents' criticism centers around the feeling that open classroom provides too much freedom for students, and not enough basic instruction. Also, they claim there is no discipline.

One parent charged Glenmeade students "can't read."

Complaints which surfaced at a recent Chino school board meeting centered around children having too much latitude, no structure to their school day, too many non-salaried persons teaching, student cheating, stealing, and too many games and crafts available.

Much of the same criticism—and some varying complaints—were voiced by a number of parents who expressed dissatisfaction with Lone Hill School in San Dimas, last month.

Mrs. Beverly Marshall included in a list of concerns the lack of discipline at Lone Hill, large numbers of students receiving failing grades in language arts and sciences, long lunch lines, closed rest rooms and excessive noise levels in open classrooms.

Another parent, Mary Louise Rowfinke, indicated a lack of structure in classrooms as a key problem. She said there was a little homework assigned, and a no achievement grouping.

But administrators stand behind open space, even though some admit there have been difficulties.

"When you have 90 kids and three teachers in one area, it's very visible when a few students move around," said John McMurtry, Chino's assistant superintendent for instruction. "Parents come in, and that's all they see."

"We recognize parents' concerns, and are making physical changes to allow for increased supervision," McMurtry promised. "Some old cupboards that kids hide behind are being moved."

McMurtry said the district is moving toward more formalized instruction, and principal Bill Westbrook says he is also concerned about student cheating and stealing.

Noel Shutt, Bonita's director of educational services, claims the Lone Hill problem has been resolved, since the parents aired their complaints in mid-December. "We made changes, adding program services," he said, declining to elaborate.

"We've increased discipline," he added.

But it remains to be seen how far parents will go with their gripes. In Chino, at least, school officials have not seen the last of the irate parents.

Teen jobs boosted in Lancaster bill

Sixteen and 17-year-olds may by state law obtain a license to drive trucks. But another state law prohibits them from driving for hire until they are 18.

We believe the laws are not only contradictory, but discriminatory. Assemblyman Bill Lancaster thinks so, too, and that's the reason he has introduced a bill in the State Legislature to permit 16 and 17-year-olds to be employed to drive vehicles covered under the Class 3 license.

Under Lancaster's bill, if a minor holds a Class 3 license he may be employed to drive a Class 3 vehicle. This applies to all two-axle vehicles, three-axle housecars, and cars pulling a trailer less than 6,000 lbs.

Lancaster's view, and we concur, is that if the law already permits 16 and 17-year-olds to drive big rigs they should not be prevented from being hired to do so.

Part of the problem of juvenile delinquency is the inability of young people to find jobs because of the age barrier. Hopefully, if Lancaster's bill is enacted into law, young people will get a better shake in the job market. Teen-agers gainfully occupied are less apt to be involved in crime.

The long, long tunnel

It is like the replay of a bad dream.

Two years after "peace with honor," South Vietnam is reeling under widespread and sustained North Vietnamese offensives. President Ford has called for a $300-million step-up in arms aid in addition to $700 million already authorized for this year, and he and his secretary of defense have warned Hanoi that the United States will not stand idle by and see South Vietnam go under.

The antiwar demonstrators are back in the streets of Washington and the voice of the extremist is once again heard in the land.

"American opinion historically has reacted in anger to outright aggression, unprovoked massive attacks," said Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger the other day . . . "Congress under these circumstances might well authorize the use of American force."

From the other side: "Quite clearly, the United States is the reason for the bloody struggle that goes on," said Bishop John Burt of the Ohio Episcopal Diocese and participant in something called the Assembly to Save the Peace Agreement, conveniently ignoring the fact that no South Vietnamese soldiers have ever invaded North Vietnam.

Quite as clearly, the American people are not buying either viewpoint. They know who was and is the instigator of war in Vietnam, but they also know in their guts that 55,000 American lives and who can count how many billions of dollars are enough. If South Vietnam cannot defend itself after all that America has done for it, then it never will be able to.

The popular mood is reflected in Congress, where it is not just the traditional doves who oppose an increase in military aid and who, Schlesinger to the contrary, will certainly not countenance ther return of American military personnel. They have the lessons of the past 10 years to support them.

Yet the South Vietnamese are fighting well, we are told. It is not lack of will but lack of means. They did not surrender at Phouc Binh, the first provincial capital to fall since 1972, but where overwhelmed. Their air force is virtually grounded because of a shortage of fuel and spare parts. Their artillery has but a handful of rounds. They sustained 120,000 casualties last year.

Not so the North Vietnamese. They have been massively rearmed by Russia and China. The Ho Chi Minh Trail, safe from American bombers, is now a four-lane highway down which flows the wherewithal of war in unceasing stream.

We have heard it all before: Just a few more planes, tanks, guns. Just a little more effort. The light at the end of the tunnel.

And again from the other side: The Thieu regime is corrupt, dictatorial, not worthy of being saved. It is Saigon that violated the peace agreement.

Yet the refugees continue to flee — southward, not northward.

It is tempting to believe that just a few more billions, one more show of American resolve, will salvage something from this endless and unspeakably tragic conflict. Can we stand aside and watch what little chance for freedom exists in Indochina be overwhelmed by communism when mere money could prevent it?

But we have been lied to so much before. We have seen the "best and brightest" men in our government adopt the tactics of the enemy, we have seen our young men debased, the nation's honor stained at places like My Lai. We should never have gotten involved in that vicious war. Let us at long last be done with it entirely.

Yes, we are nearing the end of some kind of tunnel. But there is no light. Only darkness.

Another Watergate--Texas style

WASHINGTON — Some of the biggest names in America have been linked to a Texas Watergate scandal, which involves a bungled wiretap operation, a coverup attempt and some accompanying shenanigans.

The story is every bit as fantastic as the Washington Watergate drama. After weeks of investigation, we have now dug the details out of unpublished court records and sealed grand jury evidence.

The roots go back to the late oil curmudgeon, billionaire H. L. Hunt, whose children and aides split up in a classic struggle over his enormous wealth. One faction was led by the Hunt brothers, Bunker and Herbert, who suspected another faction of siphoning funds from the old man's empire.

To satisfy their suspicions, the government charges, they hired wiretappers who, in Watergate style, botched the job. A wiretapper, spotted outside the house of a former Hunt executive, was arrested on Jan. 16, 1970. The trail led to the two Hunt brothers, who began frantically pulling political wires to keep their names out of the scandal.

We have already reported the sworn testimony of two witnesses who told of a $50,000 to $60,000 "payoff" to the powerful Senate Judiciary Chairman, Sen. James Eastland, D.-Miss., whose committee has jurisdiction over the Justice Department. He made calls in behalf of the Hunt brothers to Richard Kleindienst, who was then the deputy attorney general, and to House Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, whose nephew, Eldon Mahon, was one of the prosecutors.

Kleindienst called both the head of the Criminal Division, Will Wilson, and Wilson's aide, Henry Petersen, about the case. Wilson and Mahon then spoke to Mahon's prosecutor-nephew. But all deny that they brought any political pressure to help Hunt. Eastland also swears he never received a cent from the Hunts, except a fair market price for some Charolais cattle.

The Hunt brothers managed to ward off an indictment for three years. But on Feb. 28, 1973, they were indicted. Both have pleaded not guilty. Bunker subsequently asked Sen. Eastland to inquire about a parole for Patrick McCann, one of the jailed wiretappers, whose testimony could be damaging to the Hunts. An Eastland aide, Courtney Pace, immediately sounded out the Federal Parole Board about McCann.

Here are a few other allegations in this bizarre case:

—There is sworn testimony that Bunker Hunt discussed his pending prosecution with President Nixon at a barbecue, which former Treasury Secretary John Connally threw at his Texas ranch. A former Hunt employe was also quoted in testimony as saying that Connally got fat legal fees and a bonus cattle deal from Bunker Hunt "to disguise a payoff" for his backstage help in the case. A Hunt spokesman conceded that the multimillionaire had business dealing with Connally but denied a payoff of any kind. At the barbecue, Hunt merely exchanged amenities with the President in a reception line, the spokesman said. We were unable to reach Connally for his comment.

—The case almost broke in open court last March when a lawyer started telling Federal Judge John Singleton in Houston about his suspicions of a coverup. Astonishingly, the judge abruptly silenced him. "I am liable to get that marshal up here and just put you in jail for making that remark," barked the judge. Singleton told us, in retrospect, his ire may have been "unwise."

—A key witness swore that lawyers hired by the Hunts offered him $1,250 a month if he would go to jail and keep his mouth shut. A second witness testified that he was also offered $1,250 a month for his silence and a third witness said he was offered $800 a month. The money was never paid, but the Hunts picked up the lawyers' fees for potential witnesses in the case, according to largely undisputed testimony.

—Two witnesses in the case swore they were threatened with death if they testified against the Hunts. One said he was told that "the government can't help you if you are dead." The other testified he received a warning that he would "get killed if you double-cross the Hunts." A Hunt spokesman called the charge absurd, pointing out that both witnesses testified and remained quite alive.

We have traced the Texas Watergate case from Capitol Hill in Washington to Houston's plush Maxim's restaurant, from The Hague and London to Hunt's headquarters in Dallas. The Justice Department is officially silent on the case. But their court filings in Dallas state that Bunker Hunt and some of his henchmen "are the subject of the grand jury's investigation . . . of obstruction of justice."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: When Standard Oil of Indiana made its bid to take over Occidental Petroleum, "Oxy's" president Armand Hammer reportedly threatened to promote a congressional probe of the takeover. While there is no evidence Hammer personally carried out any such threat, his man in Washington, Marvin Watson, telephoned Senate Interior Chairman Henry Jackson, D.-Wash., who was visiting London. Jackson referred Watson to an oil subcommittee headed by Sen. Floyd Haskell, D.-Colo. Watson in turn called the amiable Haskell, who announced hearings shortly thereafter. Haskell insists to us that the hearings had nothing to do with the Watson call. In any case, the takeover has been put off, at least for the time being . . .

The Pentagon is hushing up an Air Force audit that shows the taxpayers coughed up $112 a day each for military visitors to vacation at the King Salmon fishing retreat in Alaska. Some of the poohbahs were generals flying in by government plane . . . The reform bloodletting in the House of Representatives is not over. Liberal insurgents seeking to unseat Rep. Harley Staggers, D.-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, from leadership of his investigations subcommittee, have bumped head-on into Staggers' friend, Rep. John Murphy, D.-N.Y. Murphy is circulating a petition trying to preserve Staggers as head of the investigations unit.

Just in jest

Did you ever get to wondering how the human race has managed to exist this long? And after listening to the dire warnings of all the so-called experts, hasn't that wondering sometimes become abject fear? Could it be that we now find ourselves living on borrowed time?

Well, according to the experts, that's probably exactly what's happening. —First they told us cigarette smoking could be our undoing. And as if that weren't worry enough, along came a University of Missouri physician, a director of the Environmental Health Surveillance Center, with the additional warning that the soot from book-type matches and lighter fluid also contains known cancer producing agents.

Then a couple of university professors in England informed us that the world's ever increasing criminal behavior can probably be blamed on lead poisoning. —Never let it be said we haven't been warned!

And with all that authoritative advice to guide them, one would naturally expect our political leaders to be working overtime introducing legislation designed to curb such threats to the well being of the human race. So what has happened recently in that connection? Well, for one thing, a California State Senator has introduced a bill that would allow smoking in specified areas on high school campuses.

Democracy's secret weapon: Uncertainty

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A friend, then in charge of antiballistic missile research and development, was prepared to argue at the drop of a hat that the ABM was essential to our arsenal because it would add mightily to the uncertainty of Russia's military and political planners.

When you build a major radically different weapon that a potential enemy cannot obtain to study, my friend would say, it confuses their experts. They can never be sure what your system can and cannot do. They must assume the worst. This uncertainty, then, is of greater value to our security than the actual accuracy or reliability of the ABM itself.

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger has much of the same feeling to those who argue the Russians, the Chinese, the North Vietnamese and the members of the world oil cartel will grow arrogant and reckless in their actions, being convinced that we have lost our will, he has one reply: But you forget uncertainty!

A democracy, Schlesinger is convinced, acts in such unpredictable ways not even the most astute Russian, Arab, Israeli, Chinese or Vietnamese can foretell what an American president or Congress will do, or what the American public will favor from one day to the next. We don't know ourselves.

This reasoning is behind the series of indirect hints by President Ford, Secretary of State Kissinger and by Schlesinger on the possibility of an armed takeover of oilfields in the Middle East if the industrial economies of the West are strangled by an oil embargo. It may also have been in the mind of Mr. Ford, when he refused to rule out a renewed bombing in Vietnam if the situation there should turn critical for Saigon.

Now everyone knows the President is not toying with intervention in the Middle East or with bombing in Southeast Asia. Some go so far as to ridicule the hints as futile saber rattling. Others scoff at the Ford-Kissinger-Schlesinger "candy sword."

But with all that, the Russians, Arabs, Israeli, Chinese, and the North Vietnamese cannot be sure. The high U.S. officials whose decisions count, the Senate, the House of Representatives and American public opinion most certainly are today strongly against armed landings in the Middle East oilfields and direct intervention in Vietnam. But the world knows by now that opinion in the United States can turn 180 degrees overnight. It has in the past.

Mr. Nixon, as president, virtually formalized this uncertainty strategy, in both war and peace. His breakthroughs to Russia and China were abrupt turnabouts. His on-again, off-again actions in Southeast Asia, culminating with the surprising invasion of Cambodia and the final all-out bombing of North Vietnam, most certainly surprised Hanoi and the world's military and political experts.

But we need not limit ourselves to Mr. Nixon. Our movement into Korea, much to the astonishment of the Russians, came not long after Secretary of State Dean Acheson had made it clear we considered the area outside our zone of vital interest.

Our entry into the Vietnam war followed a long period of years in which our highest officials and our leading military men had regularly recorded the wisdom of staying completely clear of the area militarily. From the facts available, it seems that President Eisenhower considered it extremely unwise to intervene temporarily by air to assist the French temporarily in the Dien Bien Phu period.

ANN LANDERS

There are times when to stand up to husband; this is one of them

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in our mid-30's and have three children who are all normal and doing well in school. Our fourth child was born in 1971—the sweetest little girl you'd ever want to meet, but unfortunately she came into the world with a severe facial deformity that makes her look like some sort of a monster.

Her brothers and sisters treat her nicely, but she is stared at and shunned by the neighbor children, and even some adults. It is incredible how insensitive people can be. Some grown-ups have asked me right in front of the children, "What happened to her?" I try to be civil and reply, "She was born this way"—then I move on as fast as I can.

One of the most heartbreaking aspects of the problem is that my husband believes we should not seek surgical help because "it is God's will." He is a strong-minded person, but I am beginning to feel that I must stand up to him. I'm sure I can do it with encouragement from you.

Is there a doctor or a clinic in the East who can make our little girl look less grotesque? I'm not expecting a miracle, just some surgery that will put her more in the class of a normal child I'll find the money somehow.

Please print your advice in the paper because I can't take a chance on receiving a letter from Ann Landers. He opens everything. I am not concerned that he will recognize this letter as mine because he hasn't read anything, but the Racing Form for 10 years

Thank you, Ann, and God bless. — A Mother

Dear Mother: By all means, stand up to your husband. And do so at once. If you permit him to intimidate you with that nonsense about "God's will" you must bear part of the guilt for not at least attempting to get your child the help she needs.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a close friend who came to me several weeks ago and asked me to lend her $250. It was obvious that she had had a few drinks and seemed so desperate I couldn't refuse—so I gave her the cash.

We've seen each other several times since, but never once has she mentioned the money. Last night, we met at a party and I took her aside and asked when she intended to repay the $250 I loaned her. She looked at me as if I were crazy — denied having borrowed any money and left me standing, struck dumb. What can I do? — Speechless.

Dear Speechless: You can kick yourself for not getting something in writing.

A no-sensense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement Ann Lander's booklet, "Marriage—What to Expect," will prepare you for better or worse. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Monday, Feb. 3, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will not make as much of an opportunity as you could. Why? You'll discuss it prematurely with the wrong party.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It will not be to your advantage to alter an agreement with another once terms are set. Stick with your original deal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Broaden your scope concerning important matters relating to work or career. Concentrate on long-range advantages.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's not a good time to ask a material favor from one you know only socially. This person will feel put-upon if you do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't make any decisions on your own regarding a family issue that affects joint resources of you and your mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll dilute effectiveness of your plans if you try to implement them piecemeal. Keep over-all aims before you at all time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) For the present, best opportunities for material success are through your normal channels. Don't speculate on the unknown.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something beneficial will be happening for you. Don't announce it prematurely, especially to one who may resent your good fortune.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Express your gratitude to one who has gone out of his way to do you a favor. To know of your appreciation is all he asks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An involvement you have with some friends could wind up costing more out-of-pocket than anticipated if you're not careful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will handle large issues personally important to you in a beneficial manner despite some self-doubts that will arise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're lucky today in things that you assume direct management of. Trust yourself, don't delegate authority.

Your Birthday Feb. 3, 1975

There will be much opportunity about you this year and it will surface suddenly, unexpectedly. Be alert so that the good coming your way can be expanded upon.

'Shirt' an unspeakable word 150 years ago

The word "Shirt" was unspeakable in polite society 150 years ago. But "smock" was all right. Mysteriously, then "smock" came to be regarded as vulgar. So "shirt suddenly grew popular. Eventually, "shirt" became disreputable, and by the turn of the century, it couldn't be spoken in public. But "shirt" was finally quite acceptable. I don't get it.

Note it stated by a Love and War authority, not our house expert, that couples ought to take walks together in the rain, because that practice tends to improve their marriages. When this contention was put to our own Love and War man for his analysis, he said, "Ridiculous! Couples who take walks together in the rain don't need to inprove their marriages." Certainly, certainly.

NATIONAL FLOWER

Q. "What country calls the onion its national flower!"
A. Could be you refer to Wales which so designates the leek.

Again am asked why blue laws were so named. No, not why you may think. Just because they originally were printed on blue paper, that's all.

One out of every 33 households had an annual income of more than $15,000 in 1950. Ten years later, it was one in every 13. Just five years ago, it was one in every five. And five years from now, it will be one in every three. Or so say the Commerce Department boys.

THE HARD FACTS

Spurt speed of a sailfish is 170 m.p.h. . . . Half of the widowers remarry within five years . . . "paranomasia" is the classicial name for a pun.

The word "mad" once meant "poisonous." And "adder" was the old Anglo-Saxon word for that snake we call an "adder." Point is, our phrase "mad as a hatter" was not originally synonymous with "crazy," but meant "poisonous as an adder." Or so reports one authority. Interesting, if true. Our Language man long has been under the impression that "mad as a hatter' alluded to those numerous hatters who suffered mercury poisoning, an ailment common in the trade because of the use of quicksilver. A patient with mercury poisoning is apt to tremble uncontrollably, then get disoriented.

About this and that

A total of 3,170 billion gallons of water — about eight times the average daily flow of the Mississippi River — is funneled daily through the nation's water pipes, turbines and irrigation systems to meet the needs of homes, factories, farms and power plants.

Henry C. Traute, the go-getter who fathered matchbook advertising, also thought up what may be the world's most ignored safety suggestion: "Close Cover Before Striking."

ERMA BOMBECK

A mother's place in high finance

It's cold, hard fact that women are the financial giants in this country. We control the money, the wealth, the holdings in most of the major corporations.

I personally manage the Bombeck First National Bank (Kitchen Branch) out of my handbag, open seven days a week (including holidays).

Every morning for the past 20 years there has been a steady stream of borrowers waiting for the purse to open.

I dispense money for milk, lunches, notebooks, dry cleaning, parking, movies, skating, tennis balls, yearbooks, allowances and loans.

Last week I took some drastic measures to forestall the closing of the bank which seemed inevitable. "From here on in," I announced, "I will conduct regular banking hours. The purse will be open on Monday mornings from 7 to 9 a.m."

"How come?" asked my son. "The big banks are staying open."

"Yes, but the big banks have something we don't have. Depositors. Now, who is first?"

"I need 20 cents for milk money."

"I need a check cashed," said my daughter.

"Have you got two IDs?"

"MOM!"

"Next."

"I have to borrow on my allowance. I need a record, 'Gladys And The Pip Squeaks.'"

"That takes you to April 27, 1981. When you are 26 years old will you love Gladys and the Pip Squeaks as you do today?"

"Mom, I need $3 extra," said another son.

"No way," I said shaking my head. "There is absolutely nothing you can say that would make me give you $3. You are over-extended and you spend money like you have it. I mean it. No more money!"

"I want to get a hair cut."

"I was saving a few dollars back for my surgery, but take it.";

Later, as I pulled into a filling station, I counted out 51 pennies and ordered a gallon of gas.

"You want it to go? Or are you going to use it here?" snapped the attendant.

I know I'm a financial giant, but sometimes men make you feel like a pygmie.

THE DOCTOR COMMENTS

By DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Am I hurting myself by placing a flat rock (26 pounds) on my stomach? I usually lie flat on the floor, place the rock on my stomach and concentrate on flexing my stomach muscles.

It's very difficult for me to lose my flabby stomach. Swimming, bicycle riding or exercising all summer did not even phase the fat bulge.

I'm 47, female and weight 150 pounds. I'm 67 inches tall. I was warned by a friend that a heavy object on the stomach is unhealthy. I disagree.

DEAR READER — Whether a heavy object on the stomach is dangerous or not depends on what it is. If you are not careful you will win the weight-lifting contest for the stomach muscle division.

Whenever you want to strengthen a muscle you should do exercises that contract that muscle. You do exercises that bend the elbow to strengthen the biceps. By using a weight while bending the elbow and contracting the biceps you progressively strengthen and enlarge the biceps muscle.

The main stomach muscles are attached at the lower part of your ribs and to the ligaments and bones of the pelvis. When you do a sit-up these muscles are contracted and strengthened. Ordinary sit-ups affect the upper muscles most and lying on your back while lifting your knees straight helps strengthen the lower muscles. So sit-ups and leg lifts or those exercises that are modifications of these basic exercises are the ones that help to tighten up the abdomen.

Voluntary contracting and relaxing the abdominal muscles helps, too, whether you are lying down, sitting or standing. Literally sucking in that abdomen as much as you can and holding this position five to 15 seconds resting, and then repeating that maneuver for regular exercise periods daily does help some.

Your problem is not unusual. You simply cannot get rid of a fat abdomen without getting rid of fat. A person with poor muscle tone and a sagging pot can improve the shape of the abdomen with exercise, but if you have fat inside the abdominal cavity and under the skin, the only thing that works is eliminating the fat. This usually requires a change in diet, combined with an exercise program. There is no way you can compress a pound of lard and make it smaller. The same is true of fat.

Now that rock on the stomach may not cause you any trouble, but I'm not wild about the idea. People who have a through the hole in the diaphraghm shouldn't do this because the increased pressure would help force the stomach through the hole in the diapraghm. Obesity contributes to this type of hernia, and it is quite common in middle-aged or older people. Pregnancy causes a temporary hernia of this sort in over half of pregnant women. If you have no tendency toward a hiatal hernia and have had no difficulty with the rock, I doubt it will harm you, but don't expect too much from it. You can get much better results if you can lose excess body fat with a good dietary program. That doesn't mean one of the fad or crash diet efforts, either.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For acopy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Losing Weight" booklet.

What people say

"If you assume that you can't trust the President, you're in trouble and that's all there is to it. So despite the fact that there's been criticism, I'm afraid, if I had to do it all over again, I think I'd make the same decision."
— Henry E. Peterson commenting on his handling of Watergate after resigning as head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division.

Incredible journey

Stanley's epic trail retraced by group

By CHARLES PEARSON

LONDON (UPI) — "How he got through, God knows," Lt. Col. John Blashford-Snell said in amazement.

The British officer, head of an expedition that retraced Henry Stanley's epic journey down the Congo River, emerged from Africa "with incredible admiration for the man."

One hundred and fifty soldiers, scientists, doctors and nurses returned to London Monday after recreating Stanley's 100-year-old, 2,670-mile journey in search of Dr. David Livingstone.

"I have incredible admiration for the man," Blashford-Snell said at the end of his four-month journey along what is now called the Zaire River.

Stanley traveled on a wooden boat, accompanied by untrained helpers, but Blashford-Snell's group used four inflatable rubber boats and modern equipment.

"How he got through, God knows," the British officer said. "We have been to the places he listed and have seen the spots where he lost his men.

"There was an incredible whirlpool big enough to take a London double-decker bus. I saw whole trees going down in it as if down a plughole.

"The sheer force and power of this river was unimaginable and we only just got away from the whirlpool as our engine began to give up."

The expedition cost more than $360,000. It carried out scientific experiments and returned with enough specimens and information to keep research laboratories busy for five years.

Research has already begun on river blindness, which affects about 20 million residents of West Africa, and water pollution along the Zare River.

The expedition found that only 29 miles of the river were impassable, but more than half the team suffered illnesses such as malaria and amoebic dysentery.

Stanley, a reporter for the New York Herald, traveled to Africa to find Livingstone, an explorer in search of the source of the Nile River. At their meeting, Stanley said: "Dr. Livingstone, I presume."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Under the polluting chestnut tree

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trees enjoy something close to sacred cowship in this country.

Poet Joyce Kilmer ranked them ahead of versification. Poet George Pope Morris admonished woodmen to spare them. The one that grew in Brooklyn made the best-seller list.

To be told, all of a sudden, that trees contribute to air pollution is like being told that Snow White had halitosis.

The tendency is to close our ears to such talk, as environmentalists did at a recent hearing on auto exhaust emission standards.

When a Chrysler Corp. executive pointed out that trees and grass also give off pollutants in the form of hydrocarbons, it was sacrilege in the first degree.

"A red herring," cried one environmentalist, metaphors awry. (The old fish-in-the-tree trick.)

"You don't drive your lawns downtown in large concentrations," another testily observed.

Such reaction was understandable considering the reverence in which trees are held. But one wonders whether it was not a bit shortsighted.

What does it gain us merely to be affronted by the Chrysler biggie's put-down of our leafy friends?

Even the environmentalists concede that trees, lawns and other flora do produce hydrocarbons. ("That accounts for the way pine trees smell," one said.)

And while the pollutive impact may not be "terribly bad," as someone pointed out, that is no reason to ignore it.

A more prudent course would be to remove the tree from its pedestal and have the Environmental Protection Agency establish vegetation emission standards.

As the first step, anyone planting a tree would be required to file an environmental impact statement.

It should be fairly simple for botanists to develop an underlimb anti-hydrocarbonation spray. If used as directed, you could deodorize your pine trees for up to seven days with one application.

Some tree growers will object, of course, vowing that they like the smell of pine. Such resistance can easily be overcome.

There is already on the market a number of aromatic sprays, including some that smell like pine. So it should be no problem to put out a pinescented underlimb spray, thus replacing artificially the natural odor that would be lost through anti-hydrocarbonation.

If you happen to be growing oaks, the spray might be somewhat incongruous. But a pine-scented oak tree is a small price to pay for cleaner air.

Comedy making comeback

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Woody Allen and Mel Brooks virtually have the movie comedy field to themselves; other producers and directors have abandoned farce and humor to television.

Brooks' "Blazing Saddles" and current "Young Frankenstein" were critically well-received and spry at the box-office.

But producer-director Brooks says, "You have to be 10 times as funny in movies as you do on television."

In the case of Brooks, he is also 10 times as off-color.

"A comedy film must be an event," he said. "If not, people will stay at home and watch Archie Bunker. So we're forced into excessive behavior.

"There's no way people will confuse 'Blazing Saddles' with a TV western. You must leave the house to see my comedy. It's suicide to make a tepid comedy for the theater."

Brooks, like Allen, has inspired a cult. A sizable section of the public will troupe to their pictures simply because they know what to expect. Neither man has let the audience down yet.

Both producers are strong on poking fun at the establishment, satire, irony and —in a pinch —slapstick.

"Young Frankenstein" is an hiliarious take-off on the horror pictures of the 1930s. It is filled with nuggets of comedy particularly appealing to young people who don't dig sitcoms on the tube.

"Television comedy has established a rhythm of the big laugh every 30 seconds," said Brooks. "Well, that can't sustain in a movie.

"High-level comedy won't sustain over a period of a two-hour picture. You've got to give the audience time to rest. There must be some relief from the intensity of humor."

In appearance Brooks is a somewhat elderly Charlie Brown of the "Peanuts" Gang. His head is round and balding. His eyes are round too. He is an intense man, slightly mad, whose wit and funny bone are spike sharp.

He has been criticized for his vulgarity in "Blazing Saddles."

" 'Saddles' was more raucus and vulgar than 'Frankenstein.' One must remember cowboys are rougher than the gentry of Transylvania.

"But I've done my western and horror pictures. There will be no sequels. In my next picture I'd like to work with Marty Feldman again and use Dom deLuise and myself —if I can afford me.

"I love teams. Group comedy. Nobody does it anymore like Laurel and Hardy, or even the Ritz Brothers, Abbott and Costello or Martin and Lewis. They were all super funny.

"In Frankenstein' I had Peter Boyle, Feldman and Gene Wilder acting together and it was pure pleasure watching them work in concert. It wasn't necessary to give them a punch line every minute or two. They each know how to build a scene.

"We had a helluva time working together. But there was another important element that had nothing to do with the script or performers. It's a matter of timing the release of the picture.

"I think we did well to bring it out at the same time 'Earthquake' and 'Towering Inferno' were released. It gave audiences a change of pace — as well as a relief from television situation comedy."

Reissue Mozart opera classics

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wonderful and, finally, personally tragic genius of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart produced nothing finer than his operas.

Often recorded before, two of his masterpieces —"Don Giovanni," for many the summit of opera, and "Cosi Fan Tutti" —have new recordings. One may be sure that this year as in recent years past, Mozart recordings will rank one, two or three in numbers issued.

The new "Don Giovanni" grew out of its production at last year's Edinburgh Festival. Using the same cast, Angel has recorded the version directed by Daniel Barenboim with the English Chamber Orchestra and the Scottish Opera Chorus (SDL-3811).

The cast features Roger Soyer as the Don Juan with the courage of his predilictions, Antigone Sgourda as Donna Anna, Luigi Alva as Don Ottavio, Peter Lagger as the Commendatore whose stone statue drags Don Giovanni down to hell, Heather Harper as Donna Elvira, Geraint Evans as Leporello, Alberto Rinaldi as Masetto and Helen Donath as Zerlina.

Overall it is a good production, based on Mozart's first version of the opera premiered in Prague in 1787, but with the later Vienna additions on the fast side.

"Cosi Fan Tutti" is the latest of the Mozart productions of conductor Colin Davis for Philips, a finely packaged album (6707-025) with the stellar cast of Montserrat Caballe, Janet Baker, Ileana Cotrubas, Nicholai Gedda, Wladimiro Ganzarolli and Richard Van Allen.

Cosi is about the closest Mozart came to softcore porn, although several of his operas were about sex. Of course, the swapping of fiances all comes out well in the end.

Fortunately fine opera performances of the past on records are seldom lost —if they go out of print, they are often brought back years later in budget editions which are well worth the while.

Thus, Columbia has reissues of two more issues of Metropolitan Opera performances from the 1950s, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" in one album (Odyssey Y3-3312), and Alban Berg's "Wozzeck" (Y2-33126).

The "Cav" and "Pag" staples have added interest because they feature the voice of the young Richard Tucker, one of the great tenors, who has just died after some 30 years on the Met stage.

Another bit of nostalgia from the 50s is the Seraphim reissue of a great recording of "Madame Butterfly" featuring Victoria de los Angeles, Guiseppe de Stefano and Tito Gobbi (K-6090).

Internment photographs at Cal State

The internment of 110,000 Japanese-Americans 33 years ago by the federal government is recorded in photographs on display in the library of Cal State San Bernardino through March 8.

The exhibit is entitled "Executive Order 9066," the measure under which the imprisonment took place. The 63 black-and-white photos were chosen from 25,000 found in the War Relocation Authority files of the National Archives and in other collections throughout the country. The exhibit is produced by the California Historical Society.

Richard and Maisie Conrat designed the show seeking, they said, "an exhibit that would not point an accusing finger at those responsible for the internment but would strengthen the viewer's appreciation for the precariousness of our rights and freedoms."

HORSE PLAY—Francisco Goya's etching, "A Woman and a Horse, Let Someone Else Master Them," is one of the Spanish artist's works which will go on exhibit Saturday at Lang Gallery, Scripps College, and Montgomery Art Gallery, Pomona College. This work, Plate 10 from the series, "Los Proverbios," is a gift from Norton Simon to the Pomona College collection. The show runs through March 21.

Starting Saturday

Goya print exhibition to be held at Claremont Colleges galleries

A major exhibition of prints by 18th Century Spanish artist Francisco Goya will open Saturday at the Claremont Colleges galleries — Lang Gallery at Scripps College and Montgomery Art Gallery, Pomona College.

"The Graphic Art of Francisco Goya" shows Goya as one of the four greatest artist-engravers of all time, along with Durer, Rembrandt and Picasso.

The prints in the exhibit are from the Norton Simon Foundation, Norton Simon, Inc. Museum of Art and the Pomona College collections. The Norton Simon Foundation has one of the largest and most important Goya Collections in the United States. The exhibition will include unique proof-states and rare first editions from this collection. It also will display for the first time the Goya prints given to Pomona College by Norton Simon.

Selections from Goya's four major print series will be included. "Los Caprichos," 80 satires on man's vices and superstitions, ranges from humerous scenes about education, the nobility and the battle of the sexes to haunting visions of witchcraft and the spirit world. "La Tauromaquia" is a series of scenes from feats of contemporary bullfighting and the sport's history. "Los Desastres de la guerra" is a series of 80 views of war's ravages on both soldiers and civilians, while "Los Proverbios" illustrates such proverbs as "Where there is a will, there is a way."

Goya was the first major artist to experiment with lithography. His "Bulls of Bordeaux," included in the exhibit, is considered a masterpiece of the now popular medium.

By displaying various editions of prints, the exhibit demonstrates the differences in quality between working proofs, prints made under Goya's supervision and those made 40 or more years after his death.

A catalogue by galleries director David Steadman will provide a general introduction to Goya's prints. Available for $3.75, it has 66 pages and 86 illustrations.

The exhibit has been supported by a grant from the National Endowmen for the Arts.

Several events have been scheduled in conjunction with the exhibit which runs through March 21. Steadman will give a series of gallery talks about the exhibit at 12:30 p.m. Feb. 11 and March 11 and 18. He will discuss "Los Caprichos" in Lang Gallery on Feb. 11; "Los Desastres de la guerra" at Montgomery Gallery on March 11 and "Los Proverbios" at Montgomery Gallery on March 18.

Four movies will be shown in Rembrandt Hall on the Pomona campus. Kenneth Clark's "Goya" from the new series, "The Romantic Rebellion," and "The Glory of Goya" will be screened at 4 p.m. Feb. 12 and repeated March 12 at 7 p.m. At 4 p.m. Feb. 26, viewers may see "Goya's Caprichos," a movie of the ballet based on Goya's satirical series and "Goya," a short color film. Those two films will be shown again at 7 p.m. March 19.

Art lovers may attend the lectures and movies free of charge. They are also invited to view the exhibit, beginning at Lang Galleries, from 1 to 5 p.m. daily and from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays.

Bruins pull away to topple Trojans

UCLA trails by two at half, rallies to 89-84 Pac-8 win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Seniors Dave Meyers and Pete Trgovich combined for 45 points as fourth-ranked UCLA came from behind in the closing minutes to defeat the University of Southern California 89-84 Saturday night in a Pacific 8 Conference game.

The Bruins, who dissipated a 7-point first-half lead, trailed by two points at the half and didn't go ahead for good until Meyers hit a 20-foot jumper with 6:25 left to give UCLA a 72-71 margin.

Meyers, who had only six points in the first half, went nine for 20 from the floor and had 23 points. Trgovich hit on eight of 12 field goal attempts for a career-high 22.

USC's 6-2 senior guard Gus Williams led all scorers with 29 points, hitting 12 of 29 attempts and scoring 17 in the second half.

UCLA's win moved the Bruins into a tie for the conference lead.

Fifth-ranked USC, now 13-3 overall and 3-2 in Pac 8 play, holds the only two victories scored over UCLA in the 147 games the Bruins have played in Pauley Pavilion since it opened in 1965.

The Trojans edged the Lew Alcindor-led Bruins 46-44 in 1969 and the Sidney Wicks team 87-86 in 1970. Since the latter loss, UCLA, now 15-2 overall, has won 77 straight at home.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first half before UCLA pulled out to a 35-28 lead with six minutes left. Then the Trojans stormed back to outscore the Bruins 15-6 and take a 43-41 halftime lead when Forward John Lambert connected on a lay-in at the halftime buzzer.

Longenecker stuns Top Fuelers

Virtual unknown clocks a 5.93-second run

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

Paul Longenecker has never won, nor threatened to win, a National Hot Rod Association National meet.

But that may all have changed by sundown today.

Longenecker, a 34-year-old mechanic hailing from Arcanum, Ohio, has earned himself the inside track for the Top Fuel title in today's $250,000 NHRA Winternationals at Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Longenecker, NHRA World Championship Series Division Three Champion last year, stunned a large Saturday afternoon crowd with a blistering elapsed time of 5.93 seconds at 232.55 m.p.h. in his Chrysler-powered dragster to upstage a 5.97 by defending Winters champion Gary Beck.

Beck held low elapsed time for the meet until late Saturday afternoon when Longenecker pulled off the finest run of the young 1975 season. Beck's Keith Black-powered dragster had run at a top speed of 239.36.

The Longenecker performance led a group of insurgents that comprises the fastest and quickest Top Fuel field in the 15-year history of the event. Five drivers, including Longenecker and Beck, put together sub-five second runs. El Monte's Gary Read, in another Keith Black machine, ran third with a 5.972 and a top speed of 231.36. Don Ewald, of Westminster, registered a 5.975 and 234.37 to be ranked fourth, while Dave Settles of Houma, Louisiana ran a 5.986 at 236.84 m.p.h.

Jeb Allen, the promising youngster from Santa Rosa, recorded the best top speed of qualifying a 241.28. His e.t. of 6.03, however, was only good enough to earn the Chrysler ninth position in the 16-car Top Fuel field.

Don Garlits, whose rivalry with Beck provided the bulk of the pre-race publicity, maintained a surprisingly low profile. His e.t. of 6.07 in the Dodge-powered Wynnscharger earned him 12th position in the field. The veteran from Seffner, Florida, a three time winner of the Winternationals, most recently in 1973, held a top speed of 235.66 m.p.h.

Shirley "Cha-Cha" Muldowney stands a fair chance of becoming the first female Top Fuel champion in Winters history. Her Milodon-powered dragster ran the eighth best e.t. of qualifying, a 6.03 coupled with a top speed of 207.37.

Dick LaHaie of DeWitt, Michigan sits on the bubble in Top Fuel with a 6.09 and 235.60 mp.h., a time that in years past might have placed him at the top of the field.

Canadiens top Kings to knot up race again

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Jaques Lemaire deflected in a power play goal with 11:45 remaining and Serge Savard added a shorthanded score two minutes later as the Montreal Canadiens beat Los Angeles 5-3 Saturday night to move into a first-place tie with the Kings in the NHL's Division 3.

Lemaire's 22nd goal of the season came after a long shot by Guy Lafleur. Savard's score, his 12th, came on a three-man breakaway as Montreal defeated the Kings for the first time this year after a loss and three ties.

The triumph in the crucial match enabled the Canadiens to extend their victory string on the road to 14 games, one short of the NHL record.

The setback before a disappointed sellout crowd of 16,005 at the Forum was Los Angeles' first in 15 matches in Division 3 play.

Trailing 3-2 after two periods, the fired-up Kings evened the score at 5:30 of the final period on a power play effort by Bob Berry, his second goal of the game.

Yvon Lambert's 24th goal of the season, a 15-foot rebound shot, put Montreal ahead for the first time this season against the Kings at 15:37 of the opening period. Pete Mahovlich made it 2-0 early in the second period as he skated in alone against Rogie Vachon after a pass from Lafleur.

The Kings bounced back to tie on 30-footers by Maloney and Berry in the second period. The Canadiens went ahead 3-2 when Larry Robinson fired in a 45-foot shot past Vachon with just 50 seconds left in the period.

ON THE BALL

Bob Lutz of the U.S. keeps his eyes on the ball as he returns it to Raul Ramirez and Vicente Zarazua of Mexico during third game of Davis Cup play Saturday.

Hawaii Open play halted by wind, rain

HONOLULU (UPI) — A torrential tropical storm, high wind and a frenzied surf Saturday forced postponement of the third round in the $220,000 Hawaiian Open, the fourth event on this year's PGA Tour which Al Geiberger leads by a stroke after 36 holes.

After a morning-long wait plus a massive effort to dry out the Waialae course, PGA officials called it a day and announced the third round will be played Sunday and the final round on Monday.

It was thought at first that an attempt would be made to get in the final 36 holes on Sunday because the next stop on the Tour is the Bob Hope Desert Classic in Palm Springs, Calif., a five-day event which gets under way on Wednesday.

But with 79 players left here after Friday's cut, it was decided that it would be virtually impossible to get everyone around the course twice in one day because of early nightfall at this time of the year.

Early Saturday, Waialae resembled a lake and despite a great effort to clear the course of water, there still were thousands of little pools over the layout, which meant play would be impossible.

PGA officials disliked calling off play Saturday because of national television commitments but they had little choice.

Cal Poly edges Biola, 71-70 on Williams' last-second tip-in

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Cal Poly's thrilling, last-second 71-70 win over visiting Biola Saturday night was more than non conference win over a good team.

"That was the cement," exulted Broncos coach Don Hogan. "We're there now. The way those guys had to get there . . . they got in foul trouble, they got behind, but they sucked it up and just kept coming."

Trailing most of the second half by from one to four points, the Broncos finally caught up with the Biola with 4:25 left to play. Joe Sills, who led Poly with 20 points, sank two free throws in a one-and-one situation to tie the score, 63-63.

Levi Williams, the ultimate hero, stole the ball and Paul Newton's 13-foot jumper put Poly ahead 65-63, the Broncos' first lead since the first half when they were in front, 16-14.

Ed Newkirk, who sparked the Eagles with 18 of his 22 points in the second half, missed only his third shot of the half and Williams rebounded.

But Jim Worthy stole the ball only to have Billy Ingram miss a 10 footer. Newkirk fouled Williams at the 2:53 mark and the 6-6 junior sank the first free throw in a one-and-one situation but missed the second. Biola rebounded, but Williams stole the ball only to miss a layup.

Worthy was fouled by Williams (his fourth) and made one of two free throws to narrow the lead to 66-64.

Poly worked the ball around and Cantwell, after a good pass from Sills, scored on a layup to make it 68-64 with 1:40 remaining.

Newkirk hit a 12-foot jumper with 1:17 left. Poly was controlling the ball well with a four-cornered offense and Biola had to foul at the 38 second mark. Williams made the first free throw but missed the second to cut it to 69-68.

But it took Biola only nine seconds to cut it to 69-68. It looked bad when Newkirk stole the ball and was fouled by David Kennedy as he went in for a layup. He made both free throws and Biola led, 70-69 with 21 seconds remaining.

Poly took a time out with 10 seconds left. Sills lofted a 12-footer with four seconds remaining and it went in and out to the right where Williams was already high in the air. He tipped it in with two seconds left to give Poly the game, 71-70.

Mexico goes one up in Davis Cup

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Underdog Mexico took a 2-1 lead over the United States Saturday as its doubles team of Raul Ramirez and Vicente Zarazua came from behind to trim Dick Stockton and Bob Lutz, 4-6, 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, in the Davis Cup North American Zone finals.

The Mexicans trailed two sets to one and were down 4-1 in the fourth set when they launched their comeback.

The U.S., stunned by lightly regarded Columbia at Bogota only a year ago, now must win both singles matches Sunday. But that seems unlikely since Ramirez, 21, who upset Stan Smith on Friday, is one of the Mexican singles players.

Ramirez, the top rookie on the World Championship Tennis tour last year, faces former Stanford left-hander Roscoe Tanner at 11 a.m. (PST), with Smith meeting Roberto Chavez, the other Mexican singles player, in the second match.

The Mexican duo of Ramirez and Zarazua, 30, a 10-year Davis Cup veteran and a doubles specialist, broke Lutz' serve on the first game of the fifth set on a love game and that was enough.

When the Mexicans came out after a 15-minute intermission following the first three sets, Stockton and Lutz won the first three games and soared into a 4-1 lead in the fourth set. But the Mexicans roared back, with Ramirez holding his service in the sixth game after trailing 40-30.

In the seventh game of the pivotal set, the Mexican players broke Lutz' service on a forehand shot by Ramirez.

After Zarazua held his service in the eighth game to tie the set at 4-4, the Mexican team seemed to have all the momentum. With Stockton serving in the ninth game, the Mexicans took a 5-4 lead on two straight points after the game was tied at 30-30.

Ramirez then held his service and the match went into the fifth set.

Stockton, the former NCAA champion at Trinity (Tex.), had four service aces in the match while Lutz and Zarazua each had one. Stockton had the only double fault of the day when, in the seventh game of the final set, he obviously felt the pressure

In the final set, after Lutz's service was broken in the opening game, Zarazua held his service easily in the second, sixth and 10th games, the key to Mexico victory as far as the tennis experts were concerned.

In the 10th game, Mexico went ahead 40-0 when Lutz hit a backhand into the net, Ramirez drilled a forehand in for a point and Stockton his a forehand out. The Americans got the next two points when Ramirez netted a volley and then failed to handle Stockton's forehand.

But on the next point, Lutz hit a forehand return from the corner wide and the small group of Mexicans in the crowd of 3,050 at the Raquet Club screamed their approval.

Porche Carrera leads at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Al Holbert and Elliott Forbes Robinson led a Porche Carrera assault on the 24 hours of Daytona at the midway point Sunday morning after a front-running BMW fell victim to a massive oil leak.

The Holbert-Robinson car moved out to a lead of nearly 25 miles over a second place Carrera driven by 1973 winner Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood as the drivers kept a watchful eye on the weather.

APC falls to Pt. Loma

SAN DIEGO — Azusa Pacific College put itself in a must win situation Tuesday when it hosts NAIA District III Southern Division leader USIU Tuesday by losing a 69-58 decision to Pt. Loma here Saturday night.

Plagued with the same problems it has struggled with most of the season, the Cougars managed only 44 per cent from the field and less than 50 per cent at the free throw line and were outrebounded by Pt. Loma, 46-24.

Allen Aylor led all scorers with 19 points for the winners and Rob Carver was high man for Azusa with 14 points.

Azusa carries a 9-10 record overall into the game with USIU, which leads the division with a 4-0 record. Azusa is 2-3 in division play.

College basketball roundup

Indiana struggles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Forward Scott May scored 25 points to lead top-ranked Indiana to a hard-fought 72-66 Big Ten victory over Ohio State Saturday night.

The win was the 20th without a loss for the Hoosiers, who now are 9-0 in the Big Ten.

Indiana, which has won 23 games in a row going back to last year, the longest major college streak in the nation, found itself in trouble for one of the few times this year, as the Buckeyes, led by Craig Taylor with 24 points and Bill Andreas with 19, took a 57-55 lead with 10:33 left in the game.

Quinn Buckner, who finished with 14 points as did the Hoosiers' Steve Green, gave Indiana a 59-58 lead with 9:35 remaining and the Buckeyes never were able to catch up.

NC State upset

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Freshman guard Brad Davis sank a 10-foot jump shot with two seconds left Saturday to give eighth-ranked Maryland a 98-97 upset win over second-ranked North Carolina State.

The Terrapins, ending a two-game Atlantic Coast Conference losing streak, had led by as many as 18 points in the first half and were out front by 14 at the half, 57-43.

Lepera shares Burdines lead

MIAMI (UPI) — Janet Caponi Lepera, with her sister openly cheering her on, held on for a tie with limping Jane Blalock and Sandra Post Saturday after two rounds of the $40,000 Burdine's Invitational Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Lepera bogeyed the final three holes to sink into the tie with a one-under-par 71 and a four-under 140 total for the rounds. Her sister, Donna Caponi Young, who finished a shot off the pace with a 71, played in the same foursome with her sister for the first time in two years.

Tied with Mrs. Young a shot back was Kathy Cornelius, who fired a 70 Saturday over the par 72 Kendale Lakes course.

Denver signs St. Mary's back

MORAGA (UPI) — Cornerback Al Holmes, last season's outstanding defensive back at St. Mary's College, has signed as a free agent by the Denver Broncos, the school announced Friday.

The 6 foot, 178-pound Holmes, a three-year letterman, led the team in kickoff and punt returns last season.

Louisville runs

LOUISVILLE, Ky (UPI) — Frustrated by the slow-down tactics of recent opponents, the third-ranked Louisville Cardinals took advantage of a rare opportunity to run Saturday night to roll up their highest score of the season in a 112-67 shellacking of North Texas State.

Allen Murphy pumped in 23 points and freshman Ricky Gallon added 19, all in the last half, to spark the Cardinals to their 15th victory in 16 games and improve their Missouri Valley Conference record to 6-1.

Alabama rolls

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Charles Cleveland and Leon Douglas led the Alabama defense and scored 35 points between them Saturday night to pace the sixth-ranked Crimson Tide to a 77-53 victory over Auburn and into a tie for first place in the Southeastern Conference.

Before a record crowd of 15,043, the Tide, now 8-1 in the conference, moved into a tie with seventh-ranked Kentucky, who whipped Mississippi State 112-79 Saturday. Alabama is 13-2 over all while Auburn is 12-4 on the season and 7-2 in the EC.

Kentucky romps

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Seventh-ranked Kentucky led from the opening tip and got 20 points from freshman Jack Givens in a reserve role Saturday night to defeat Mississippi State 112-79 and remain tied for the Southeastern Conference lead with an 8-1 mark.

Senior forward Kevin Grevey added 16 points as Wildcat coach Joe B. Hall did what he could to hold down the score by emptying his bench early. Of the 15 Wildcats playing, five scored in double digits.

LaSalle downed

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Syracuse, responding to its biggest challenge of the season, defeated 10th-ranked LaSalle Saturday night 82-78.

LaSalle, behind by as much as 10 points on two occasions, drew to within two, at 78-76, with 1:29 remaining, as forward Bill Taylor sank a layup.

Then, after a minute of scoreless play and several turnovers, Syracuse co-captain Jimmy Lee made two foul shots and tallied on a layup to give Syracuse an 80-76 lead with just seconds left.

American Airlines Golf Tourney

Bando, Hubbard lead by 7

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Oakland stars Sal Bando and Mary Hubbard carded a best-ball score of 17-under-par 54 Saturday to take a seven-stroke lead after two rounds of the 54-hole American Airlines Golf Tournament.

The tournament, which teams a baseball star with a football player in best-ball competition, concludes Sunday at Canyon Country Club. The winning team will receive $10,000.

Bando, third baseman for the world champion Oagland A's, and Hubbard, running back for the Oakland Raiders, had a 111 best ball two-round total. Houston Oiler Quarterback Dan Pastorini and Houston Astro second baseman Tommy Helms were in second place at 118.

Tied for third at 121 were three teams: New York Jet quarterback Joe Namath and New York Yankee outfielder Bobby Bonds; A's rightfielder Reggie Jackson and Raider wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff; and Detroit Tiger catcher Bill Freehan and Detroit Detroit Lion defensive back Lem Barney.

The first-round leaders, Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Don Sutton and Los Angeles Ram quarterback James Harris, soared to a 69 Saturday and were 13 strokes off the pace.

American League MVP Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers, who teamed with Denver Bronco running back Bob Anderson to win the tourney last year, had the day's best round, a natural 3-under-par 68. He and Anderson, however, were well of the pace.

Among the teams participating in the three-day tourney were baseball great Joe DiMaggio and football star Otto Graham, who had a 125 total; baseball's Willie Mays and football's Johnny Unitas, 130; and New York Mets' manager Yogi Berra and former Green Bay Packer linebacker Ray Nitschke, 131.

The Funny Cars, meanwhile, provided a few insurgents of its own. Bill Leavitt, a native of Richmond, Virginia, piloted his Mustang to a low e.t. of qualifying 6.21 at 224.43 m.p.h. Leavitt shaded the previous low e.t. of favored veteran Don "The Snake" Prudhomme. The Granada Hills legend posted a 6.25 at 228.42 in his '75 Monza a shaped Funny Car.

Gordie Bonin of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, holds the best top speed of the meet so far for Funny Cars, a 233.16. His e.t. of 6.41 qualifies him in eleventh place. Jim Dunn, of La Mirada, rides the bubble with a 6.45.

A pair of National records could be tied in Pro Stock, provided adequate back-up runs are made today. Wayne Gapp's e.t. of 8.810 leads the meet and ties the National record set by Bob Glidden a year ago at Ontario's Supernationals. And if that wasn't bad enough for Glidden, his top speed of 154.90 is threatened by Bill "The Grump" Jenkins of Malver, Pa., who ran an identical speed Saturday.

Gapp's time, of course, places the Birmingham, Michigan driver squarely at the head of the Pro Stock field in his '73 Maverick. Glidden, a native of Greenwood, Indiana, sits in second with an 8.829 at 154.37 m.p.h. Jenkins, in the Grumpy's Toy Vega, ran an 8.843 for third slot. The record-minded trio heads an unusually strong Pro Stock field.

John Shoemaker, Sacramento, leads the Pro Comp field with an e.t. of 6.81 at 199.55 m.p.h. in an AA Dragster.

Gary Cornwall of Reno, Nevada suffered the only injuries of the meet with his Donovan-powered dragster failed to properly deploy its chute and ran into hay bales at the end of the strip. Cornwall suffered what were described as "severe" facial lacerations by NHRA spokesmen. Also visiting the emergency area were Dale Armstrong of Torrance, and John Stewart of Sacramento.

An hour of time trials is scheduled to begin at 10:00 a.m. with the first round of eliminations set to get underway at 1:30. General Armission tickets sell for eight dollars. Pit Passes are priced at three dollars, while reserved seats, nearly sold out late Saturday afternoon, run two extra dollars.

Sports news in brief

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (UPI) — Young Mark Roth rolled 11 straight strikes but fell one pin short of a perfect game Saturday and won the $7,000 first-prize money of the King Louie Open Bowling Tournament.

It was the first victory on the pro bowl tour for the 23-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., right-hander. His was only the third 299-point game in the 14-year history of Pro Bowling on national television.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Morgan State forfeited a scheduled basketball game against South Carolina State Saturday after its defending NCAA small college champion team refused to play because of the suspension of coach Nathaniel Frazier.

The school announced that the game would be a victory for South Carolina State and a loss for Morgan State and would count in the standings of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference.

MT. SNOW, Vt. (UPI) — Austrian Harald Stuefer used his height and strength to master the icy slopes and capture the giant slalom in the Benson & Hedges classic here Saturday.

Stuefer, 6-foot-5, beat fellow Austrian and 1974 world pro champion Hugo Nindl in the dual challenge finals to win his first pro race of the season and the $4,000 top prize. Hank Kashiwa of Bellingham, Wash., was third and Pepi Stiegler of Jackson Hole, Wyo., was fourth.

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Steady Fred Wampler continued his consistent play Saturday to hold a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $50,000 PGA Lincoln-Mercury Seniors Golf Tournament.

Wampler shot a 69, his second in three days, over the par 72 Palm Course at Walt Disney World for a three-round score of eight-under-par 208. One stroke back at 209 was former PGA champion Chick Harbert, who shot a 70 Saturday.

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg and third-seeded Arthur Ashe scored convincing wins Saturday to advance to the finals of the $60,000 Richmond World Championship tennis tournament.

Bjor, 18-year-old super Swede, and Ashe, the 31-year-old veteran, square off today for the top prize money.

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Champion filly Chris Evert, making her first start of 1975 and carrying 128 pounds, raced to a nose victory Saturday in the $57,900 La Canada Stakes for 4-year-olds at Santa Anita.

Chris Evert fought off the closing challenge of Mercy Dee to score her narrow victory. Lucky Spell was third and Quaze Quilt finished fourth in the field of seven as Honky Star, another eastern invader, ran out of the money.

Jockey Jorge Velasquez sent Chris Evert up to challenge Quaze Quilt on the backstretch with Modus Vivendi in close pursuit. Mercy Dee was in last position until the final turn where she staged a swift bid to fall a nose short.

Chris Evert covered the 1 1-16 miles in 1:41 3-5 and as the 6-5 favorite returned $4.60, $3.60 and $2.60. Mercy Dee paid $7.40 and $4, while Lucky Spell returned $3.80.

The victory netted $35,400 for owner Carl Rosen and boosted Chris Evert's career earnings to $679,475. Chris Evert earned $551,063 last year, including a victory in the $350,000 match race with Miss Musket last Summer at the second-place filly.

Chris Evert spotted her rivals from six to 14 pounds and carried 12 pounds more than the second-place filly.

The victory came a day after Rosen accepted the Eclipse Award in San Francisco honoring Chris Evert as the top 3-year-old of 1974.

Today's program is highlighted by the $50,000-added San Pasqual Handicap at 1 1-6 miles which drew a field of 14. Tri Jet, Tallahto and Prince Dantan head the field.

Mets buy rights to Jerry Moses

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets purchased catcher Jerry Moses from the Detroit Tigers on a conditional basis Saturday. They have until opening day, April 8, to decided about keeping the 28-year-old receiver.

Moses batted .237 in 74 games with Detroit last year. He hit four homers and drove in 19 runs.

The journeyman catcher also played for Boston, California, Cleveland and the New York Yankees during a career that began in 1968. Moses' best hitting season was in 1969 when he batted .304 in 53 games with Boston.

Gordien stars in all-comers track meet

Former Claremont High star Marcus Gordien, now a freshman at San Bernardino Valley College, and Jerry Flowers, a senior at Eisenhower High of Rialto, turned in the top performances Saturday in the 12th annual all-comers meet at Mt. San Antonio College.

Gordien had marks of 180-feet, 4 inches in the discus and 52-feet, 4 inches in the shot put in open division competition while Flowers had a triple victory in the high school division with a 23-flat clocking in the 220, 14.7 in the 120-yard high hurdles and 6-feet, 8 inches in the high jump.

In other open division competition, which included junior college, college and university athletes, Gordon Innes, formerly of Upland High and now at UCLA, turned in a 9:12.8 clocking in the two-mile run.

MSAC's Ehriche Scott, who set a junior college record (49-10) in the triple jump last week at the Southern California Indoor Championships, leaped 45-feet, 10¼ inches to win the event Saturday.

Cal Poly Pomona's Mike Scheifer leaned 6-10¼ in the high jump for the best effort of the day in that event.

Durrett joins Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers Saturday night purchased Ken Durrett from the Kansas City-Omaha Kings for future consideration.

Durrett, a former LaSalle AllAmerican, was scheduled to join the Sixers Monday in Omaha.

The Club also said that Steve Mix has been placed on the disabled list. Mix suffered a fractured ankle and is expected to remain in a cast for six weeks.

Hope and Gleason in classic matchup

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

YOU'LL LIKE the "golf match of the decade" coming up at the Bob Hope Classic in Palm Springs.

Florida's fine comedian, Jackie Gleason, will make his first Bob Hope Desert Classic visitation to take on the popular Hope himself, in a "grudge" rubber match Saturday.

At stake is $25,000 to the winner, with each quipster having won two of four preceding matches.

Gleason won the first tussle four years ago at Doral, with Hope bouncing back the next year to win at the Diplomat. Hope won again the following year at Inverrary—but Jackie beat Bob by a single stroke (283) last year, also at Inverrary, to set up the rubber match.

This time, the palm-lined fairways and greens of Bermuda Dunes will be the battlefield as the two square off during the finals of the 72-hole pro-am portion of the 16th annual desert Classic.

Gleason and Hope—who consistently have rounds in the low 80s—will play it again, even (no handicaps). The match and their penchant for ad libs are rated a toss-up. Hope, if he loses, will pay off his "bet" by donating the $25,000 to a charity of Gleason's choice.

The world's only 5-day 90-hole tournament winds up Sunday at Bermuda Dunes, with NBC Sports providing coverage from 2 to 3:30 p.m. (PST) on Saturday and Sunday.

THIS YEAR the Professional Tour started in Arizona for the first time in its long history, and the reports are glowing, to say the least. Everyone seems to want to help the tour.

Johnny Miller, who has taken a stranglehold on the game, said in Phoenix, "The tour is like a father to me and it has been a good father. I know there are tournaments that will need help and those are the ones I want to help. Sure, I will play more this year, because we have to keep the Tour as healthy as we can and that is one way I know to do it."

Lee Trevino commented: "We all have to do what we can to help the Tour this year. I have about 22 tournaments on my schedule now, but I can go to 27 or 28 if I'm needed."

Arnold Palmer stated in Tucson that he plans to play more this year, and he was in 31 events in 1974.

Hale Irwin said, "As the U.S. Open champion, I do feel I can help in some way. We all owe a certain responsibility to the Tour. That's why we all are here, so I'm planning to play close to 30 tournaments."

THIS WRITER was privileged to play two mighty impressive golf courses in the Southland recently. Last Saturday I took a good look at Red Hill Country Club where the greens are excellent, the fairways perfect, and the entire layout well kept.

Joe Taylor, one of the P-B's top players, and I teamed up with Red Hill's Con Walburger and Al Colebank. I must say, I saw some top-notch golfmaking.

Walburger not only showed us the course, but how it should be played by firing a neat 37-39-76.

On Thursday, I tested the Canyon Country Club (Palm Springs) layout, where the baseball and football stars are flailing away these days in the American Airlines tournament. Canyon is a flat, fair, beautifully manicured course, replete with traps.

The athletes are fun to watch, with their fluid swings and natural moves. Generally, they compete intensely and take their golf seriously.

THE WALNUT VALLEY Recreation Department will stage its first annual golf tournament on March 27 at Western Hills Country Club in Carbon Canyon. Entry fee is $15.

Persons interested in playing in the 10 a.m. shotgun event can contact Bob Ray, recreation director at 595-1261, or Guy Freeland, tournament director, at 595-1261, ext. 241.

FIVE FORMER stars of the 1930s and '40s, including Ex-Professional Golf Association and Masters champion Henry Picard, have been named to the Citizens Savings Golf Hall of Fame in Los Angeles.

Picard, 67, won the PGA Championship in 1939 and the Masters title in 1938.

Burke, 72, was the 1931 U.S. Open winner while Farrell, 73, captured the crown in 1928. Also winners of the PGA title were Ghezzi, 62, in 1941 and Revolta, 63, in 1935.

FORMER CHAFFEY High swinger, Dan Hogan will be back at United States International University in San Diego this year as a sophomore to vie again for the District 3 title, which USIU won in 1974.

Hogan was district medalist last year as a freshman. The team posted a 20-1 dual match record. USIU opens this year at Quail Lake Country Club in Riverside.

Rod, Jimmy meet today

KNXT (2), 10 a.m.

It is billed as "the Battle of the Century" or "Age Versus Youth"—the best three-of-five sets between a pair of ace lefthanders: Rod Laver, an agile 36 years of age, and Jimmy Connors, an aggressive 22.

Winner-take-all is the rule and no love is lost between the two. There is "some animosity," in the words of the mild-mannered Laver.

The site is the new half-million dollar, 4,000-seat tennis pavilion at Caesars Palace Casino-hotel, sponsor of the match and guarantor of the $100,000—the most money ever put up as a single prize on the tennis court.

CBS was on hand to televise the procedings live to New York starting at 1 p.m. (EST) and to other time zones in the nation on a delayed basis.

Connors and Laver are separated not only by an age gap of 14 years. They also belong to different camps vying for the almighty dollar in the world of professional tennis.

Laver, the cucumber cool Australian, gives allegiance to the World Championship Tennis group. Connors, the frenetic American, belongs to the Independent Players Association.

Only in Vegas, it seems, and only in a place that patterns itself in the lifestyle of a fallen Roman emperor, Julius Caesar, could this dream match come true. The fact is, no one else wanted to risk this kind of money in such a chancey undertaking.

To try to make a profit or, at least, break even, tickets were sold for $100, $50 and $25 each. The bulk of them—3,000—went for $50 a copy.

Laver and Connors are unlikely gladiators from a physical standpoint because they don't even come close to heroic stature. Laver is not only older but he's a bit shorter. The red-haired Aussie is 5-8 and 150 pounds while the boyish Connors is 5-10 and 151, according to program statistics.

They may be small in size but they're big in money.

Last year, Connors won a record $285,490 playing tennis. He was ranked No. 1 by almost everyone, including the Association of Tennis Professionals. Laver was No. 9 in money with $117,450 and was ranked No. 4 by the ATP.

The match was instigated by Connors, who claims he was unjustly barred from a crack at the Grand Slams of tennis because he was not allowed to play in the French Open.

His entry was not accepted because of his affiliation with still another group, World Team Tennis, which was frowned on by the French Tennis Association. Connors won three other legs on the Grand Slam—the British, the United States and the Australian Opens.

Laver first swept the Grand Slam in 1962 and again in 1969.

Gateway, residence for teen-age mothers and infants, plans auxiliary

By MARY REMILLARD
P-B Women's Editor

Faith, hope and understanding—these are the basic tenets on which a most unusual home was developed in Pomona almost three years ago.

It all began in 1970 with an idea for service to young high school age mothers and their children. And today it is Gateway House, an old home in the city that has been turned into apartments as temporary residences for the young families.

Gateway House has the distinction of being the only residence of its kind in Southern California, and it came about when interested men and women saw the desperate need for such a facility. The original committee included Phil Wright, deputy for social services, Los Angeles County Department of Social Services; Mrs. Sallie Foster, social worker for Los Angeles County; Ray Peacock, Salvation Army; Harold Wood, social worker in the County Health Department; Mrs. Beth Hadady of Pomona Unified School Ditrict Health Services; and the Rev. Jerry Elliott, at that time minister of First Presbyterian Church in Pomona.

Within a year the board had developed the project into a nonprofit California Corporation with the assistance of Frank G. Brookings, attorney.

Gateway's first gift of $5,000 in stock came from a local "angel" and this enabled the board to make a down payment on the building.

The first young girls moved in with their infants in May, 1972, and the two-story frame building, remodeled into two apartments for the girls and a small apartment for the house manager, has been full ever since. Thirty-eight girls have lived there. Early last week one girl was leaving, another was moving in, so that the complement today is six young girls and their infants, along with the manager and her small daughter.

The theory behind Gateway House is to help a girl help herself. The Pomona District of Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services makes a concentrated effort to reach out with an offer of services to girls in the area who are under 21, unmarried and who need help because they are pregnant or have a newborn child.

"Gateway House does not make the problem. The problem is already there—the teen-age pregnancies, the young mothers with babies. Gateway provides a way to independence," says Mrs. Foster.

"The young mothers who come to Gateway are expected to take full care of their babies, learn how to handle money and pursue educational or vocational goals," Phil Wright explains in detailing the requirements for admission to the residence.

"If the girls are employed and making enough, Gateway is not the place for them. What we offer is low-cost housing for girls 16 years of age and over. They must continue their education in high school or in a vocational school or by correspondence. Gateway was never meant as a permanent residency. It is principally a place to help her learn to care for her baby, to budget her funds and to follow her educational goals," he says.

On welfare, a girl receives $212 per month. If she is residing at Gateway House she must pay $95 per month to share a two-bedroom apartment with two other girls and their children. It is completely furnished, with all utilities paid. The rent has not been raised since the residence was opened. Each young mother assumes responsibility for her share of housekeeping and meal preparation.

Robbie, 17, who is now at Gateway, says, "When a girl is young and has a baby and doesn't know where to turn, this is a great place. Of course there are problems, lots of tensions and lots of friction. But we learn to get along with one another, and if we have our heads together we can work it out."

For many of the girls their reason for being at Gateway House is conflict with parents, and many have great emotional problems.

The Gateway House board has added a psychiatric social worker to its staff. She meets with the group for an hour each week to focus on what causes friction. She is Mrs. Nancy McMillan, a member of the Tri-City Mental Health Authority and Clinic staff, who is loaned to Gateway by the clinic.

The residence is close to medical facilities, shopping and transportation. Health care is provided by private physicians through Medi-Cal.

The girls may attend Park Avenue Continuation School or other schools of their choice. They are able to leave their children at the School District Infant Center adjacent to the continuation school or at Trinity Methodist Church Toddler program. The latter is also run for school-age parents.

Elaine, 24, became the house manager in June, 1973. Prior to that she had been a resident with her infant daughter. When the first manager, an older woman, left, Elaine applied for the position and received the appointment. She had only recently left Gateway House when the vacancy arose.

"If a girl is getting training for a job I will help her arrange babysitting. Usuaully, the girls can arrange this with one another," Elaine says.

"I find most of the girls have lots of problems and a hard time working out their problems," she says.

"I didn't think this would be such a difficult problem. I find myself becoming a bit of a counselor."

Elaine says "I think it is very necessary to teach a girl to budget money and to get along on her own. That's what she learns here. This is the first step to learning to be independent and a girl in this position must learn that."

The average stay when Gateway House opened was approximately four months, but today Mrs. Foster says it is approximately six months.

The board of directors of Gateway today has 20 members. They are: Mmes. Jean Anson, Kay Baum, Caroline Beatty, Sallie Foster, Patricia Ann George, Beth Hadady, Jessica Haskell, Betty Odom, Anne Parrott, Hester Powell, Jean Powlesson, Ruth Robbins, Jean Rogers, Judy Speidel, Virginia Williams, Dr. Jonas Naujokaitis, Dr. Annabel J. Teberg, Jack Lightfoot, Harold Wood and Philip S. Wright.

As the number of girls has increased, so also have some of the problems, chiefly monetary. One grant was received from a local foundation and Gateway has benefited from revenue sharing funds from the city. Other contributions have been made by private parties, churches and philanthropy groups.

Now the board, the administrative body, has given consent for the organization of an auxiliary. The auxiliary will have direct involvement at Gateway House with committees handling housing, funding, personnel and programming. The auxiliary, open to men and women, will also raise funds for the residence.

Mrs. Rogers of the board will preside at an organizational meeting of Gateway House Auxiliary when the group meets at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 10, at First Presbyterian Church.

Donations for the residence and information about the auxiliary meeting may be obtained by calling Gateway House, 622-9910, between 8:30 a.m. and noon.

Interested persons may also call 623-6371, Ext. 21 or 44.

TODAY'S Women

'New Spirit' cabinet

Two women selected

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Claire Detrick, a Republican, flops down on her office couch, lights up a cigarette and says the days when she fought only for conservationist causes are behind her.

Rose Bird, a Democrat, taught consumer protection to college students, but now sits erect behind her office desk and avoids talking publicly about how much protection California consumers need.

They are the two women in Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s "new spirit" cabinet, probably the first ever to hold such rank in the state, although periodic rearrangements of the government structure have left the issue unclear.

And each brings her special background to the head of "super bureaucracies" in the Brown administration.

Mrs. Detrick is secretary of the Resources Agency, which oversees the departments of Conservation, Fish and Game, Forestry, Parks and Recreation, Water Resources, among others.

She was first vice president of the Sierra Club only weeks ago and redecorating her Menlo Park kitchen when she got a call asking if she would be interested in the job as resources chief of the most environmentally diverse state in the union.

She had met Brown only three times in her life, and then just long enough to say "hello and goodby."

To her utter amazement, subsequent talks with the governor led to her selection. At age 44, she put down the sword. "I am no longer an advocate. My job is to resolve the differences among advocates," she says.

Ms. Bird, 38, is secretary of the Agriculture and Services Agency, which includes the departments of Consumer Affairs, Food and Agriculture, Industrial Relations, the state Fire Marshal, and more.

She met Brown nearly 15 years ago when both lived at International House, a coop student dormitory at the UC Berkeley campus.

The two maintained their acquaintenance as Ms. Bird went on to become a legislature intern, a Nevada Supreme Court clerk, a deputy public defender in Santa Clara County and a teacher of criminal law and consumer protection at Stanford Law School.

She worked on Brown's campaigns for secretary of state and governor but was never "a mover or shaker." She sometimes was his chauffeur when he went to the San Francisco Bay Area.

Still, she was "quite surprised" at her high-level appointment, and gave up law for government only with "a great deal of reluctance."

In an interview, Mrs. Detrick, who prefers "Mrs." was friendly, outgoing and relaxed. She joked and seemed genuinely enthused about her role as environmental compromiser.

The windows in her 13th floor office framed the snow capped Sierra to the east of Sacramento and the rich agricultural land at their base.

She spoke of a new emphasis on "low cost" recreation for the underprivileged.

"One of the worst inequalities is that children grow up and never have the opportunity to feel the kind of peace I grew up with in the Rocky Mountains back in the 30s."

She also believes now is probably a good time to go slow with large developments, such as the controversial Peripheral Canal addition to the state Water Project.

"But I want to take a new look, I mean that," she says.

She has a Ph.D in microbiology from Stanford, and declares, "I'm convincible by fact, but not by rhetoric —I hope."

Ms. Bird, who prefers the feminist "Ms." is more cautious, reserved and maybe even shy. Above all she is lawyerly.

With both agriculture and consumer affairs potentially explosive issues in the Capitol this year, she is firm: "I don't think we advance the course of government very much by coming in and making blackand-white statements ... premature judgments have got us into a lot of trouble."

Before talking about any issues, even consumerism where she has a great deal of experience, Ms. Bird pleads the need for more time and study. "If my training as a lawyer has taught me anything it has taught me to find out what the facts are and to try and give a fair hearing."

But in a agency which she describes as the closest thing to a "conglomerate" in the government, she hopes to bring some of the interests together.

"Very often there is an attempt to put agriculture over on one side and the consumer over on the other," she says. "It is time to look at it more realistically. The farmer actually is one of the largest consumers in the system."

Gabardine new for fall

PARIS (UPI) — Gabardine has been resurrected to cash in on the new fashion for mannish tailored suits in the spring-summer high fashion shows.

Designer Gerard Pipart at the salon of Nina Ricci leaned heavily on gabardine for his belted mannish tailored suits with long jackets and narrow, flat skirts.

Designer Hubert de Givenchy also brought back gabardine, not really popular since the 1940's, for daytime T-shape dresses, narrow but broadening out with padded shoulders and wide, short sleeves.

Givenchy's masculine-looking blazer suits with straight skirts also came in the new "star" fabric of gabardine, plain or striped.

Designer Emmanuel Ungaro's straight, severe coats of pastel or pinstriped gabardine over skimpy, short matching dresses harked back to the 1940's. Tube-dresses with simple V-necklines also came in pale gabardines.

The Ricci collection also starred linen.

"Women never buy linen on the mass market because it wrinkles," commented one department store buyer as he left the show.

But women rich enough to buy high fashion hand-made clothes have maids to iron the crisp white linen trenchcoat slung over a black linen trouser outfit at Ricci's.

In a whole series of outfits in linen, designer Pipart showed linen suits and midi dresses with bare tops and shoulder or halter straps.

The currently soft, full look never looked better in Pipart's smock coat of caramel-colored silk swinging over a gathered matching skirt and puffy printed blouse.

Mink panchos over gabardine trousers drew applause, too.

Those mannish, narrow tailored suits with straight, flat skirts just below the knee have been in all the shows. If the jackets were too short they looked post-war skimpy, but Pipart's jackets hit at the end of the hip.

Buyers say that so far the most noticed mannish suit is Dior's in white flannel edged with navy blue, likely to be copied in Hong Kong and elsewhere before the week is out.

Programming dreams takes some practice

Without spending a penny, some night soon treat yourself to a South Seas island vacation or a romantic interlude with a secret Romeo or Juliet. (depending on your sex).

Or if you're on a starvation diet, help yourself to a free feast with rich gravies, candied sweet potatoes and dessert topped by chocolate sauce and whipped cream. This meal won't add to your waistline or subtract from your spending money.

"Such remarkable feats can be accomplished once you master dream control," says Dr. Patricia L. Garfield, a clinical psychologist in San Francisco.

In an interview, she said dream control means ordering up your dreams before you assign body and mind to slumberland.

Programming dreams takes practice. But if you keep at it, she said, you can experience many pleasurable events in your dreams that you can't in a wakeful state, due to lack of time and-or money or nerve.

Dr. Garfield author of the newly-published "Creative Dreaming" (Simon and Schuster), has recorded over 10,000 of her own dreams in diaries since the age of 14.

She teaches a course in creative use of dreams at the University of California University Extension, Berkeley, does research in dream consciousness and control and publishes articles in professional journals.

The study of dreams still is in its infancy, decades after the pioneering work of Freud and Jung. More than two dozen dream laboratories in the United States monitor sleep and dreams.

Dr. Garfield's rules to dream by are drawn from her own experiences, those of her students and historical and anthropological examples.

She said ancient Greek pilgrims approached a temple expecting a visitation from Apollo. Usually they received a dream representation with an intelligible message. But that's not all. Dr. Garfield said:

"American Indians who isolated themselves in rites of passage to await a calling were rewarded. And such men as Robert Louis Stevenson, Rene Descartes and Samuel Taylor Coleridge all claimed creative inspirations from their dreams."

The modus operandi for programming your dreams, as Dr. Garfield described it:

—Find a place where you feel peaceful and undistracted. A bedroom will do.

—Clearly formulate your intention for a desired dream. Order your dream: life without bills, an affair with maximum pleasure, a terrific ski or swim trip, eating and drinking without worry about the bill, health or waistline.

—Put your intention into a concise, clear, positive phrase. Don't say —"I think I'll have a flying dream." Rather, say — "Tonight I fly in my dream."

—Deeply relax your body. "A basic exercise in Yoga is savasana or Dead Man's Pose. Dr. Garfield said this gives complete relaxation.

Lie flat on the back, preferably on the floor, with eyes closed. Allow body to become totally limp from toes upward. Tense and then relax each set of muscles systematically until the entire body appears lifeless.

—While in a drowsy, relaxed state, repeat your desired dream phrase aloud several times.

— Visualize your desired dream as though it is happening and picture yourself after having had the desired dream.

—Believe that your subconscious can provide the desired dream.

"Sometimes," Dr. Garfield said, "relaxation is imposed from the outside by ingestion of drugs. This is to be avoided in dream induction because most drugs including alcohol, interfere and there are fewer dreams to recall."

Dr. Garfield said it also is possible to program dreams to make yourself stronger in waking situations in which you now appear weak.

If you have trouble asserting yourself, for example, plan dreams that place you in situations where you are assertive. Or if you have trouble controlling your weight, place yourself in a dream situation where you have superb control of your appetite and therefore stay at an ideal weight.

"This is an inexact science," Dr. Garfield said. "But it often works. I have seen it in my own life and in results among my students."

An Open Letter To The Public From Henry Block Of H&R Block Regarding Income Tax Rebates.

Following the announcement of President Ford's proposed income tax rebate plan for individuals, I recommended an alternate plan to both the President and Congressional leaders. I believe my plan is more equitable and would maximize the economic impact. Here's how I compare the two plans:

THE FORD PLAN:

1. Would give flat 12 percent rebates totaling $12 billion.
2. Would give a maximum $1,000 rebate to those with an income tax of $8,333. (Most taxpayers with incomes of $40,000 or more would receive a $1,000 rebate.)
3. Would give the largest rebates to those who are least likely to spend the money.
4. Would base the tax rebate on the amount of the 1974 tax paid.

THE BLOCK PLAN:

2. Would give a maximum 40% tax rebate at lowest income levels declining to zero for those with an Adjusted Gross Income in excess of $40,000.
3. Would give the largest rebates to low and middle income persons most in need of tax relief and most likely to spend the money.
4. Would base the tax rebate percentage on Adjusted Gross Income and then apply it to the tax...eliminating additional tax advantage to those already benefiting from tax shelters.

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?

WRITE THE PRESIDENT, YOUR REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATORS — Make your views known, whichever plan you prefer. They are the ones who will pass and approve such legislation.

FILE EARLY — The Internal Revenue Service is urging taxpayers to file their returns early. It is likely that the sooner the return is filed the sooner the taxpayer will receive any rebate permitted by new legislation. And, if you are entitled to a regular tax refund . . . the sooner you file, the sooner you will receive it.

If you have any questions about your income taxes . . . visit or call any one of our more than 7,000 offices nationwide. There is never a charge for tax information or for answering your questions.

Changes seen for homes

By United Press International

The single-family home —the kind of housing still wanted by most Americans —will remain economically possible only through change, a new approach to planning and design.

Today's popular rambling, one-story, two-and-a-half bath, ranch or split level, on its quarter-acre or larger plot, is fast becoming a relic of an affluent and abundant past, victim of inflation and ecological considerations.

Style reminiscent of the early New England colonies and space-age technology will be combined to develop high quality, livable homes. They'll be smaller but will be flexibly planned to keep pace with a growing family's needs for a variety of spatial options.

Land will have to be used more efficiently and, to this end, zoning ordinances will be rewritten in favor of higher population densities and shared land-planning concepts, such as zero lot-line and cluster zoning.

Guy Mabry, vice president and general manager of the Home Building Products Division of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. and chairman of the National Housing Center Council, speaking of the home of the future sees "a different kind of single-family home —smaller to compensate for inflated building costs and more efficient to cope with increasing material and energy shortages."

Tomorrow's single homes, Mabry said, "will be smaller, with fewer and smaller bathrooms, and a lot less frills. They are likely to be two or more stories high in an effort to reduce roof exposures which account for a sizable percentage of a home's heat loss."

"Land shortages, coupled with the costs of providing the typically zoned, single-family suburban neighborhood with municipal services, will compel developers and communities to place more homes closer together on less land, leaving open spaces to be shared by everyone."

Changing lifestyles, too, Mabry said, will have an impact on single-home design. Tomorrow's homes are likely to be expandable and require less maintenance in response to the higher incomes and busy schedules of two-income families.

At the same time, Mabry feels, the increasing importance of leisure, and what some sociologists refer to as the "pursuit of privacy," will result in less emphasis on formal living and dining room entertainment areas, and more emphasis on multi-use family rooms and highly specialized hobby and recreation areas.

Other significant home design shifts, Mabry said, will be aimed specifically at maximizing the home's operating efficiency.

"With heating costs expected to at least double over the next 10 years, homeowners will no longer tolerate inefficiency," he said.

To reduce heating costs, he suggested, lower ceilings will replace open rafters in new homes. Ceilings in bedrooms and upstairs areas may be dropped to seven feet six inches or less. Cathedral ceilings will become obsolete because they create unused space that has to be heated.

Tomorrow's homes will be better insulated, Mabry said. Many will be built with two by six studs to provide more insulation area, and insulation standards will be increased to save energy and lower fuel costs.

He expects windows, a major source of heat loss, will become smaller and have double or even triple glazing. Multiple thermostats will provide additional zones for controlling heating and cooling systems. Heat pumps, which warm a home by using the heat that's in the outdoor air even during the coldest winter day, will be used more widely because of their greater efficiency.

While the survival of the single-family home always will depend on the nation's monetary policies and consumer borrowing power, Mabry observed, "today more than ever before the future of the single-family home also depends on how effectively home builders and designers respond to the performance concepts of economy.

"Prosperity in the housing industry is no longer merely a matter of supply keeping pace with demand, or the quantity of homes being produced.

"What's important," Mabry said, "is the kind of homes being produced —and the extent to which those homes accommodate the demands of social and environmental change."

Federal finance program enters the second phase

California homebuyers received $461 million of the first $3 billion committed since last October under a federally financed low-interest mortgage program authored by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

A second $3 billion was made available nationally on Jan. 22 and will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.

Altogether, $7.75 billion in below-market interest rate mortgages is authorized by the Cranston-Brooke law, titled the "Emergency Home Purchase Assistance Act of 1974," which went into effect last Oct. 18 to stimulate construction of new, conventionally financed homes bearing mortgages up to $42,000.

The latest $3 billion will be offered at 7¾ths per cent interest through Feb. 28 and will apply only to single family houses that are newly constructed or that were ready for occupancy no earlier than October, 1973, said Cranston.

As the program is being administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, an addition of two "points" or one per cent surcharge on a mortgage, is permitted along with other fees. This would bring the effective rate for consumers to around 8.38 per cent.

Of the latest $3 billion, $1 billion will be set aside for purchasers of FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages, he said.

Cranston has sent a personal message to President Ford in urging him to commit a second $3 billion to the program since the first $3 billion has been exhausted.

"The economic outlook for the housing industry—and for potential homebuyers—appears no less bleak now than the program was first instituted," he noted.

The pools of mortgage assistance money committed under the program go to mortgage bankers, savings and loan associations and other lenders who in turn promise builders they will lend the money to buyers of planned housing or newly constructed homes.

The latest 7¾ths per cent interest set on the funds represents a $42 monthly savings over the payment required to reure a $35,000 loan over 30 years at the 9.5 per cent current average rate aroind the country.

The FHA or VA buyers can save about $30 a month over payments required for the same loan at the FHA-VA ceiling of 9 per cent.

Lewis Homes has opening in Upland

The 28 single and two story homes are located on 15th Street west of San Antonio Avenue. These are built on 10,000 square foot lots.

"The unusually large lots have enabled our designers to give these houses impressive dimensions both in their exterior architecture and in interior living area," said Richard Lewis, president of Lewis Homes.

The homes have from 1,649 to 2,194 square feet of floor space. Three car garages are included in all homes.

These are priced from $43,450 with financing of 7¾ths per cent interest is offered to qualified veterans. FHA and conventional terms are also available.

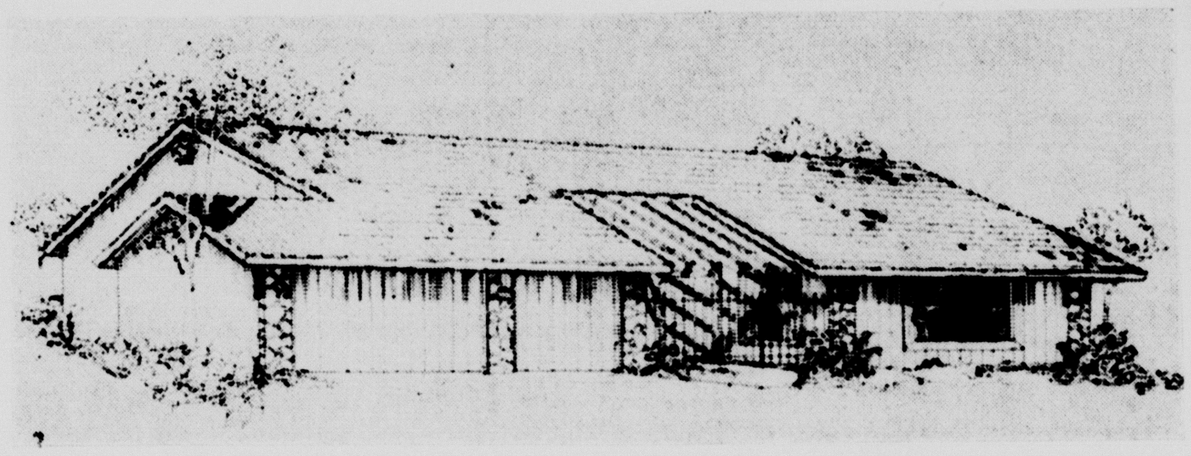
Buyers may choose from three and four bedroom plans. These all have two full bathrooms and some are designed with an additional "half bath" off the entry hall as a guest powder room.

The home stylings are designed in six different floor plans and 14 exterior motifs. They include cedar shake roofs and brick or stone veneer decor effects.

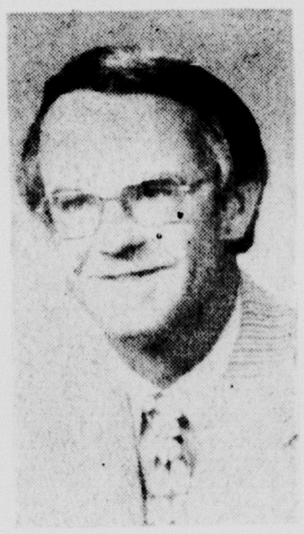
Other features are custom style fireplaces, family rooms, cultured marble bathroom pullman counters, and double ovens with self cleaning units.

The purchase price also includes shag wall-to-wall carpeting in the living rooms, dining rooms, hallways, stairways and all bedrooms and wardrobes.

To reach the homes, persons may take the San Bernardino Freeway to Mountain Avenue, drive north to Foothill Boulevard, go east to San Antonio Avenue and then north to 15th Street.



GRAND OPENING — Lewis Homes will unveil its Upland development today with a showing of four model homes. The development is centered on 15th Street west of San Antonio Avenue.



WILLIAM GARRISON

Partner is added to realty firm

The Wheeler-Steffen Realty firm in Claremont has added William W. Garrison as a general partner and the firm name has been changed to Wheeler, Steffen, Garrison, Ltd.

The firm, with headquarters in Claremont for 15 years, has branch offices in Upland and the Twin Peaks area of Lake Arrowhead. It reported gross sales of $12.2 million last year.

Garrison, a graduate of Chaffey College and USC, entered the mortgage loan business in 1960 and formed the Garrison Mortgage Co. in 1963. Seven years later, he founded the Inland Appraisal Corp.

Currently a California inheritance tax referee, Garrison plans to continue this state assignment.

The addition of Garrison to the firm signals the start of an expansion program into the non-residential sales area, said Roger S. Wheeler, a partner.

"We plan to expand our land and investment packages for the benefit of developers and also continue our existing consulting service for prospective sellers.

Arthur Steffen, the third partner, will be free to handle real estate counseling, recreational land sales and development and coordinate the firm's 30 member residential sales force, he noted.

Fewer new apartments may cause rent hikes

Fewer new multi-family housing units will enter the housing inventory this year than at any time in the past three years.

This, coupled with an expected increase in household foundations, points to a tightening in the rental market and keener competition for existing units.

During 1974, new multi-family housing starts declined much faster than completions. As a result, the housing "pipeline" has been emptying, said officials.

For example, research data indicates that in November the multi-family completions ran ahead of starts by a ratio of three to one, the low level of multi-family starts and the diminishing number of multi-family units under construction make it certain that completions will remain low through 1975 and at least the first quarter of 1976, they added.

This declining rate of completions should cause the rental vacancy rate to stabilize and perhaps decline after edging upwards since 1970.

The number of multi-family units under construction in November was 723,000, down 31 per cent from a year earlier, making it the 15th consecutive month of decline.

In addition, preliminary data for December shows privately owned multi-unit housing starts at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 190,000 units, a decrease of 70 per cent from the same month in 1973.

And officials report that the issuance of building permits for multi-family units has declined throughout 1974.

In December, permits for these units in the 14,000 jurisdictions that require permits were issued at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 320,000 units. This is 50 per cent below the rate of 645,000 units a year earlier.

Even if there should be a steady improvement in multi-unit construction, the impact in 1975 will be mitigated because of the long construction time required before these starts become part of the market supply, said officials.

The average construction time for residential buildings has been increasing since the mid-1960s. Due in part to shortages or materials, the average for buildings with five or more units in 1973 was just over 10 months with some larger structures containing 300 or more units taking more than two years to compete, they added.

Stuffing ducat down her back proves costly

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (UPI) — John Keck accepted a parking ticket from meter maid Violet Costanzi, then stuffed it down the back of her blouse. That will cost him $3,000.

A Superior Court jury deliberated 45 minutes before returning the verdict against Keck, 22, who became embroiled in the dispute with the meter maid in January, 1973.

Miss Costanzo told the jury that she was bruised, battered, humiliated and shamed by Keck.

Two honored for sales and listings

Two members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors have received awards for sales and listings during December.

They are Rosa Schwartz, who had the largest single sale, and Charles Canfield Jr., who had the greatest number of listings.

Mrs. Swartz, owner of the Rosa Schwartz Real Estate office at 817 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont, is winner of many previous awards.

A native of Mott, N.D., she graduated from the University of Minnesota and has been an area resident for 31 years.

Canfield has also received previous awards, including the greatest number of sales for 1973, greatest number of sale for last March, and the greatest number of listings sold for April and September.

Speedy ray

Scientists have found that if a ray of light were shot around the earth it would take about one-seventh of a second to complete the trip.

Preference given in surplus sales

Previous home owners would be given first choice when the state sells surplus land under provisions of a new bill recently introduced by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach.

The prior owner would be notified and given a 120-day option to purchase the land at the same price paid him originally by the state.

"This bill is particularly important now," said Carpenter. "With the cancellation of many proposed freeways, the state is declaring surplus much of the right-of-way for these highways."

In many cases the previous owners are still living in their homes on a rental basis when suddenly the state is selling the property as surplus, he added.

"To me, it seems only just that these previous owners should have the option to purchase it at the same price they were originally paid by the state."

If enacted, the bill would not apply to land held by the state for 25 years or more.

In the case of land declared to be of environmental importance, any government agency entired to acquire environmental land would have first option before the previous owner and others, said Carpenter.

Germans claim another record trade surplus

BONN (UPI) — West Germany has reported a record balance of trade surplus of $22 billion for the year 1974, up from the preceeding year's record of $14 billion.

The Federal Statistics Office said the trade surplus for December reached $2.30 billion, compared with $1.30 billion for the same month in 1973.

Exports for the 12-month period rose 29 per cent to $100 billion, while imports increased 24 per cent to $78.3 billion.

In real terms, adjusted for price inflation, exports increased 13 per cent, while imports declined 1 per cent, the Statistics Office said.

The basic balance of payments, which combines the current account and the long-term capital accounts rose to $11 billion, compared with a payments surplus of $5.27 billion in 1973.

Legislators out to clear air; might buy cuspidors

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Alabama House of Representatives has told its clerk to buy cuspidors for tobacco chewing members.

Rep. Joe Carothers of Dothan, who "can really work on a plug," asked the House Wednesday to approve spending the money to clear the air, so to speak.

Carothers said the House chamber looked like a smoke-filled room but if the House "would find us a place to put our tobacco juice" some of the fog might lift.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — I enjoy using bath powder generously after showering, but my husband complained about the mess on the carpet. Now, after a brisk towel rub I step back into the tub, powder all I want, step out and rinse away the excess powder. — MRS. F.J.W.

DEAR POLLY — It is surprising what you can save on your food bill, if you take the recipes you plan to use that week along when you shop. This eliminates purchasing the wrong types of food and saves on buying too much. — MRS. J.L.H.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

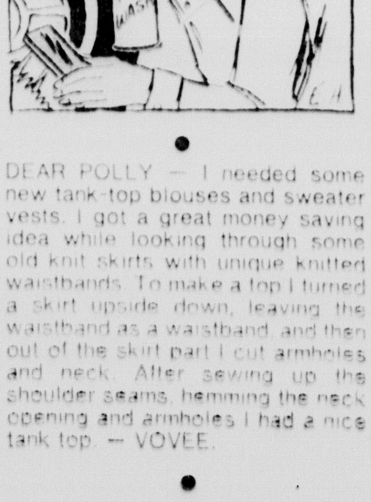
DEAR POLLY — When patching wallpaper you generally find the new pieces are much brighter than that which is on the wall. Put what is to be used for patching in the sun and watch carefully until it has faded as much as that on the walls. — LORI.

DEAR POLLY — To teach children to make their own beds, start at night. Show them how to fold the bedspread while it is still on the bed. Next morning the child can place the folded spread on the bed, start unfolding and find it goes into place easily and neatly. — MRS.D.K.

DEAR POLLY—Spray a bit of vegetable cooking oil on bottle caps such as on syrup, catsup, etc., after they are thoroughly washed and dried. The caps will turn with ease. No more sticking.—EVELYN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those girls who have trouble keeping cream eye shadow on. Before putting on the cream or liquid shadow, apply powder. This solves the problem. — PAM.

DEAR POLLY — A laundry pre-wash is the best of cleaners for whitewall tires. Just spray in on the white part of the tire. Only a bit of scrubbing is necessary — plus a good rinse, of course. — ROGER.



DEAR POLLY — I needed some new tank-top blouses and sweater vests. I got a great money saving idea while looking through some old knit skirts with unique knitted waistbands. To make a top I turned a skirt upside down, leaving the waistband as a waistband, and then cut of the skirt part I cut armholes and neck. After sewing up the shoulder seams, hemming the neck opening and armholes I had a nice tank top. — VOVEE.

DEAR POLLY — The directions I have read for making those floor-length, round tablecloths all omitted a very important point. That is to shrink the material (if washable) before cutting. I learned this the hard way. After I washed mine it was no longer a perfect circle. — MRS.L.V.

SAPSUCKERS

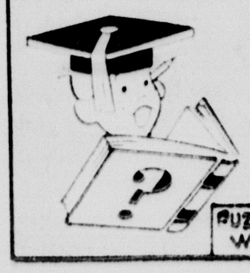
THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

CARMEN GONZALES OF PONCE, PUERTO RICO ASKS:

"WHAT IS THE SALTIEST SEA?"



THE SALTIEST BODY OF WATER IN THE WORLD IS THE DEAD SEA, LOCATED BETWEEN ISRAEL AND JORDAN. THE WATER IS ABOUT 25 PER CENT SALT, ABOUT SEVEN TIMES AS SALTY AS THE OCEAN. IT IS SO SALTY THAT A SWIMMER CANNOT SINK DEEPER THAN HIS ARMPITS. THE DEAD SEA IS REALLY A LAKE. IT IS CALLED "DEAD" BECAUSE FISH CANNOT LIVE IN IT, AND ONLY A FEW KINDS OF SIMPLE PLANTS CAN GROW BECAUSE OF THE SALTINESS OF THE WATER.

PUZZLE BOOK WINNERS: JULIE KEATON, ONTARIO, CA; CRAIG GILL, COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA; JULIE COOK, ANAHEIM, CA; JUSTIN OGDEN, MIAMI, OK

Boys and Girls,

Win one of these valuable prizes for the question answered here each week. Puzzle Books awarded for the next four best. Send your question and age to:

Woman of the Hour

Lucille Ball is roasted as the "Woman of the Hour" in the third Dean Martin Celebrity Roast of the season, Friday at 10 PM on NBC. Dean Martin hosts the special, taped in the Celebrity Room of the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas. Among the show business celebrities seen in the program is the late Jack Benny. It marks the final television appearance of the famed comedian, who died December 26.

The show is preceded by Dean Martin saying: "The show you are about to see has a very special significance, because it was Jack Benny's last appearance on television. And we are grateful for this final intimate glimpse of the man who made the world a brighter place for all of us. When Jack heard we were doing this affectionate roast of Lucille Ball, he wanted to be a part of it—and tonight he is."

'All Creatures. . . Great and Small'

"All Creatures Great and Small," the Hallmark Hall of Fame special starring Simon Ward and co-starring Anthony Hopkins, airs on NBC, Tuesday at 8:30 PM. The drama, based on James Herriot's popular novel about a young Scot veterinarian who begins his practice in the rugged farm country of Yorkshire, England, was adapted for television by Hugh Whitemore. All filming took place on location in Yorkshire.

Ward appears as Herriot. Hopkins (currently starring on Broadway in "Equus") is cast as Siegfried Farnon, the vet who takes on Herriot as his assistant. Lisa Harrow is Helen Alderson, who eventually becomes Mrs. Herriot. Brian Stirner appears as Farnon's younger brother, Tristan. Herriot's story tells of the triumphs and hardships of the young veterinarian as he obtains practical knowledge of his profession. It also chronicles a disappearing way of life in the Yorkshire farm country.

Herriot's book, first published in November, 1972, became a Book of the Month Club selection in June, 1973. A Better Homes and Gardens Book Club edition was published one month later. Condensations appeared in the Ladies' Home Journal, Science Digest, Cosmopolitan and the Reader's Digest Condensed Books. A paperback edition was published last November. The book was on the New York Times best-seller list for 17 weeks and on Time magazine's best-seller list for weeks.

THE KING AND US

BY PAUL CONRAD

WITH WHITE HOUSE TRANSCRIPT EXCERPTS

Critically acclaimed! A collection of Conrad's Watergate cartoons brutally tied to excerpts from Nixon's White House transcripts. Suddenly, the whole sordid affair comes into historical focus.

This is editorial cartooning in its finest hour—the kind of work that brought Conrad two Pulitzer Prizes and a top spot on the "Enemies List."

COVER CLOSE-UP

A HAPPY CAST & CREW

NBC's Little House on the Prairie (NBC, Wednesdays, 8PM) is not only one of the most popular new series on television(it seems to have a permanent address in the ratings' top 20), but one of the happiest behind the scenes. The popularity, says one veteran observer, may well stem from this backstage morale. When one of the slick magazines, a weekly, recently zapped the show as a hotbed of dissension, the Little House cast and crew fumed. They wanted to cry out "Wrong." But they didn't know how.

Finally someone (everyone is too modest to take credit for it) came up with the idea of buying a full-page ad in Variety, the daily Hollywood newspaper for the entertainment world. The project was labeled "Top Secret" so it would come as a complete surprise to Mike Landon, series star and executive producer. Said Marian Anderson (mother of Melissa Sue, who plays Mary Ingalls): "I was nominated treasurer. Cash contributions, all of which were totally voluntary, were to come to me. Within an hour after the word got out, I had a mountain of bills and checks on my table."

Soon thereafter the ad ran. It said: "To Michael Landon and your associates, John Hawkins and Kent McCray (Hawkins and McCray are the series' producer and associate producer respectively): It is a rare pleasure being a part of your team and to share in your many talents making Little House on the Prairie the hit it is. Your devoted crew, staff and cast." Below these words there were three columns of names, alphabetically arranged, totaling 89. Among them were Karen Grassle, who plays Michael's wife, Mrs. Ingalls; Melissa Gilbert (Laura) as well as Melissa Sue, Victor French (Mr. Edwards), Karl Swenson (Mr. Hanson), Richard Bull (Mr. Oleson), Katherine MacGregor (Mrs. Oleson), Alison Arngrim (Nellie Oleson), Kevin Hagen (Doc Brady), Dabbs Greer (Reverend Alden), Charlotte Stewart (Miss Beadle), Bonnie Bartlett (Widow Snider) and so on, through the cast of townsfolk from Walnut Grove, Minn., circa 1878.

Also there were names of behind-the-scenes people: David Rose, director of music; Ted Voigtlander and Haskell Boggs, the Emmy-winning directors of photography; directors William F. Claxton, Leo Penn and Lewis Allen; motion picture veterans Allan "Whitey" Snyder, makeup; and Larry Germain, hair stylist. In short, everyone from Ed Abbott, the generator man to Mary Yerkes, script supervisor.

The high morale in and around Little House is no accident. It starts at the top. Time and again Landon has told interviewers that he loves to work, but on only one condition—that the work is a happy experience. Mike is spoiled. His 14-year run as Little Joe Cartwright on NBC's Bonanza series was just that—a happy experience.

"We used to have some terrific times," he recalled. "I remember when we had visitors on the set. People had a great affection for the Cartwrights, looked upon them as a happy family. When we got a lot of people together, Dan (the late Dan Blocker) and I would start a loud argument. Then I'd become violent and hit him. It would end up with Dan throwing me out a window or against some furniture. It scared the visitors and other actors, as well, because we didn't tell them what we were doing."

Then there was Dan and his toupee, which he wore begrudgingly. Said Mike, "We'd go to this same restaurant every day for lunch. We had a corner booth and the tourists were always told where we were. Well, Dan had this trick where he would sneeze and the toupee would flop over his eyes, but he'd keep on talking as if nothing had happened. He was a super guy."

There were other super guys—male and female—behind the scenes, Mike felt. When Landon got the go-ahead to make "Little House on the Prairie" ino a series, he contacted these men and women. Some left long-running TV shows, others cancelled plans to work on major motion pictures. "They joined with me in taking a chance," said Michael. "Nobody knew whether we would be a hit or be cancelled in four weeks."

Among these "gamblers" were the Hawkins brothers, McCray, Vo gtlander and Boggs, directors Claxton, Penn and Allen, looping editors Vince Gutierrez and Dan Gallaher, music editors Edna Bullock and Mark Hollingsworth, Gary Wohleben, business affairs; Evy Wagner, the Hawkins' secretary; Evelyn Maloof, Landon's and McCray's secretary and Hal Burton, Michael's standin.

'THE SULLIVAN YEARS'

"While he doesn't sing, dance, or tell jokes, he does them equally well." So said Bing Crosby of his friend Ed Sullivan.

Sullivan's face was craggy, with something of the professional boxer to it that complemented his size-17 neck. There was also a warmth and graciousness that came from the eyes and a smile that wasn't infrequent after all. In his later years the exigencies of television demanded that his hair, which he combed straight back, be dyed a medium brown. He hated that, because he deplored sham. This was also the Sullivan who became a show-business phenomenon, confounding the slicksters, the back-slappers and the "Hiya, baby" types.

The late Edward Vincent Sullivan, universally known as Ed, will, on Sunday, (7:30 PM) be remembered on "The Sullivan Years: A Tribute to Ed" on CBS. Sullivan, who started out with his Toast of the Town in 1948 (it later evolved into The Ed Sullivan Show), hosted the most popular variety show in television—one that survived a remarkable 23 years. That's a record even his best friends couldn't have told him might happen.

Yet it did. And Sullivan knew why. "I'm the best showman on television," he said. It wasn't an idle boast. He knew more about the delicate chemistry of entertaining the public than virtually anybody else. Even so, he was a master of malapropisms. There was the time he said: "Let's hear it for the Lord's Prayer" after Sergio Franchi sang it on a Christmas show. A word on behalf of the tuberculosis drive became "Good Night, and help stamp out TV." An alive and kicking Irving Berlin emerged as the late Irving Berlin and Walter Winchell became a "sports star."

No matter. It was Sullivan's uncanny showmanship which counted. He conducted his show like a newspaper managing editor, something Sullivan knew about because he was also a newspaperman. He could be brutal with talent but it was always for their own good and the show's. He would cut down a singer's act or a comic's routine with razor-like precision. Said some one close to the show: "He can hurt somebody, but usually he hurts for the best. He knows when someone's going to make a fool of himself, and he saves him."

His honesty was irreducible. When he sold a product or told people something, they believed him. Once a group of Broadway showmen were gathered in a restaurant discussing Sullivan. They were trying to figure out what he had. One said: "If you had DuPont's money, and God forbid, Ed was gone tomorrow, who would you get to replace him?" Nobody answered. On October 13, 1974, Ed was "gone," dead at the age of 72. Among the more than 2,000 persons attending his funeral were many who felt they had come to know Sullivan well during the years The Ed Sullivan Show was bringing entertainment to the people.

As one woman put it, "The theater will be lost without him."

It's Voting Time! Our Fourth Annual Celebrity Poll

Meet Karl Malden, TV's Reluctant Leading Man

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR LAWRENCE E. SPIVAK

Who is the most controversial guest you have ever had on "Meet the Press"?—W. Nockein, Scranton, Pa.

● Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo (D-Miss.) in 1946. He was an acknowledged and outspoken racist. The interview announcement brought widespread protest and threats to his life. He came to the studio carrying a gun and followed by a retinue of armed guards. Pickets parading outside the studio had signs reading "Lynch Bilbo," and police swarmed around the building. The questioning was tough and the answers revealing. Bilbo admitted being a member of the Ku Klux Klan. This was the first such admission by a Senate member. It made front-page news across the country. A Senate investigation resulted. Had Bilbo not died of cancer, he undoubtedly would have been expelled from the Senate.

FOR RUFUS YOUNGBLOOD, author of "20 Years in the Secret Service: My Life With Five Presidents"

● Not until they make them as slim as Fruit of the Loom.

FOR RICHARD HARRIS,
narrator of Atlantic Records' "The Prophet"

Do you still maintain a close relationship with Princess Margaret?—M. S., Washington, D.C.

● I have severed all connections with society, both English and American. I feel that people in that kind of society are predatory and live off other people's energy. I want to save mine for the things I want to do, and don't want to waste my time on people I'd rather not see. Yes, I was very friendly with the Princess.

FOR HELEN GURLEY BROWN, editor of "Cosmopolitan"

If you wrote "Sex and the Single Girl" now, what changes would you make?—B. A., Troy, N.Y.

● I couldn't write it now because I'm not single (and haven't been for 15 years). I only write from experience and am not a very good researcher. Any new book I write will be about being married. Someone else, living single today, would probably discuss living together, drugs, the pill, abortion, Women's Lib—all subjects that had yet to surface when I wrote my book.

FOR HUGH O'BRIAN

Tell me about your Youth Foundation. Who's eligible, how does one apply and is there any cost?—M. F., Racine, Wis.

● I've been sponsoring these free annual Leadership Seminars since 1958. All high school sophomores are eligible. The nation's 21,000 high schools have been advised of this year's Leadership Seminar on the Economy, coordinated by the N.Y. Stock Exchange, and to be held in New York April 12-19. Any interested sophomore should contact his principal or write U.S. Jaycees, P.O. Box 71, Tulsa, Okla. 74102.

FOR BEA ARTHUR of "Maude"

Are you the same feisty, opinionated woman at home that you are on television?—A. S. Kravitz, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● No, I'm a different feisty, opinionated woman at home. I can be aggressive or meek or mellow, depending on what time of day it is and whether or not I've had my morning coffee.

FOR ALICE COOPER

Who's your closest show-business friend?—S. S., Utica, N.Y.

● The TV set. Whatever I am and whatever I have, I owe to television. You can get a college education by viewing, especially the quiz shows. My best friend is my portable TV. We breakfast together. I leave it on all night. It never fails me or answers back. People let you down. TV doesn't.

FOR JOHN RALSTON, coach of the Denver Broncos

Why did you take Charley Johnson out of your game against the Chiefs when he was within two yards of the passing record?—Chris Hatt, Novoto, Calif.

● Because: (1) Charley was injured on the last play he was in. (2) We didn't know his passing yardage. (3) We needed sprint-out action to allow more time for a receiver to get free. For this, we use John Hufnagel instead of Charley.

FOR VALERIE PERRINE, actress

What did you do before you made the film "Lenny"?—M. P., Long Branch, N.J.

● I was a gifted child (or so I'm told), but I didn't take advantage of it. I always dreamed of a career in show business. It started with my being a dancing showgirl in the Lido de Paris revue at Las Vegas' Stardust Hotel. A Hollywood agent asked me for pictures—I gave him some showing me in satin, sequins and "skin." That resulted in my roles in "Slaughterhouse Five" and "The Last American Hero."

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Is Paul Newman's son going to be an actor too?—S. K., San Francisco, Calif.

● Yes. Scott Newman, 25, has two minor film roles to his credit—"The Great Waldo Pepper" and "The Towering Inferno." He had no childhood dreams of acting; he wanted to teach history. At 16, he took up parachute jumping, enjoyed it, became a college dropout and a jump instructor. But winter weather cut his income. Flat broke, and refusing to ask his parents for help, he drove West to see if his jumping talents could be used in the "Waldo Pepper" movie about barnstorming. Instead he was signed as a "pilot." Then he enrolled in a stunt man's school. Scott's girl friend Glynn Rubin is a stunt woman. He's annoyed at hearing his father called a "sex symbol," and describes him as a comfortable "family man," who was never a swinger.

The Duchess Was American—And Is That What the Duke Loved?

By Ralph G. Martin,
Author of "The Woman He Loved"
(Simon and Schuster, $9.95)

"'Don't eat that, Sir,' she'd say, smiling and taking a caviar canapé out of his hand. 'Have this instead.' And she would give him some cream cheese on toast. He loved it. Nobody ever had cared that much for him before."

Epoque/Pictorial Parade

Wallis Warfield and the Duke of Windsor at Balmoral Castle in the thirties. Her independence of spirit and directness may well have "astonished, amazed and amused him."

Here was the Prince Charming of the World, handsome, dashing, debonair, the man who would become king and emperor of almost one-fourth of the people and land of our planet. He could have had his pick of the most beautiful, most eligible, most royal women anywhere. Instead, he was willing to surrender his heart and his throne to a 40-year-old woman who had been divorced once—and was still married.

The big question everybody asked was: Why?

Then what was the magnetic attraction?

I had thoroughly researched my biography, "The Woman He Loved," interviewing dozens of people who knew her well. However, it was only when I met her that I found the beginning of the real answer.

We had a delightful lunch in a villa at Cap Ferrat on the French Riviera. For a woman almost 80, she looked alive and exciting, and 20 years younger. She was the perfect hostess, completely in command, watchful of every guest —how they were served, whether they wanted or lacked anything. If a discussion lagged, her questions were fast and relevant. Her wit was sharp. Somebody mentioned the cranberry juice health fad in the United States, and she asked, "Does it do for you what it does for the turkey?"

But all these were tangent things about her, things I already knew. After lunch, when the other guests were ushered off to the pool, she and I went to the drawing room, and it was here that I discovered the secret.

After we were seated, she came over and sat alongside me on the sofa, so close that our knees were almost touching. She looked directly at me with her enormous violet-blue eyes, looking at me as if every word I would say would have a monumental meaning to her. Nothing is more flattering to a man. Then I suddenly realized that this was the beginning of the answer; this was how she had captured him.

The Prince of Wales first met Wallis Warfield Simpson at his royal hideaway at Fort Belvedere —not far from Windsor Castle. The Prince recalled that he had commented that she must miss America's central heating systems.

"A mocking look came into her eyes," the Prince remembered, and she said, "I am sorry, Sir, but you have disappointed me."

"In what way?"

"Every American woman who comes to your country is always asked the same question. I'd hoped for something more original from the Prince of Wales."

The Prince smiled, moved to his other guests, but echoes of that passage lingered. What lingered most was the American quality of directness and frankness.

Wallis Simpson was, of course, excited about meeting the Prince, but she had never been in awe of anyone. Her own family tree included the Warfields, who were "old, old Baltimore," and the Montagues, regarded as one of the "first families of Virginia." Her father had died shortly after she was born, but Wallis never seemed to let a lack of money interfere with her life-style. Her first husband was a handsome, virile naval pilot, Lt. Earl Winfield Spencer, Jr., whom she finally divorced after he failed to give up his heavy drinking. Her second husband was a complete contrast, with stability and security. He was Ernest Aldrich Simpson, son of an English father and an American mother, but more English than the English. A member of his father's shipping firm, he always wore a bowler hat and held a commission in the Coldstream Guards.

Between these husbands, Wallis had been a woman of many men. Foremost among them was Don Felipe A. Espil, an Argentine diplomat in Washington, a handsome, dashing six-footer who was described by a mutual friend as "a beautiful hunk of man." A connoisseur of wine, women and song, he was also a superb golfer, bridge player and horseman who could talk knowledgeably about anything from big-league baseball to international economics. "Wallis was mad about him," said a friend. But Espil married someone else.

Wallis' experience with men was broadened during her year in China. "Can you imagine a place where there are ten men for every woman?" she said, the memory still exciting her at the age of almost eighty. She repeated it as if the fact still seemed unbelievable: "Ten men for every woman!"

She not only knew men but she liked men. And she had learned how to handle them.

The Prince fascinated her from the first. The challenge was obvious. As a headline had put it, he was "The Most Eligible Bachelor Yet Uncaught." But beyond that, Wallis had the typical American sense of curiosity, and a need to satisfy it. Unlike most British women, Wallis was direct and candid. If she had a comment, she made it. If she had a criticism, she expressed it. For the Prince of Wales, who had had his fill of formal politeness, this American informality was absolutely refreshing.

Wallis' capacity to listen with sincere attentiveness got its most important test during one of her first weekends at The Fort. She found herself alone with the Prince when he unexpectedly poured out all the frustrations and satisfactions of his position, and outlined his hopes for the future of the British monarchy.

"He told all this to me," said Wallis, "and I listened and I sympathized and I understood; and I guess he needed that."

He told her about his social-service plans for the unemployed, and he was delighted that she already had read in the papers about the Council of Social Service, and wanted to know more. She also wanted him to describe his typical working day. As he talked, she sensed the loneliness of the man.

"But I am boring you," he suddenly said to her.

She begged him to continue, and he looked at her searchingly, then slowly said, "Wallis, you are the only woman who has ever been interested in my job."

It was a fateful moment.

The Prince himself testified that his initial attraction to Wallis came from her sincere interest in his work. And there is no need to question that Wallis' interest was sincere. She was doing what came naturally to her—she made the man who was talking to her feel that he was the most important, the most interesting man in the world.

"The Prince recalled that he had commented that she must miss America's central heating systems. 'A mocking look came into her eyes,' the Prince remembered, and she said, 'I am sorry, Sir, but you have disappointed me.' "

One must necessarily add that Wallis had done a little more homework on the Prince's likes and dislikes, and his special areas of concern, so that she could talk more knowledgeably about them. It is similarly certain that his royal aura made him even more fascinating to her. None of this, however, changed her American "naturalness" and "forthrightness," which the impressed Prince later mentioned. She enchanted him when she vigorously defended her point of view at a party, something he seldom saw in the British women of his set. Analyzing herself, and her own attraction to the Prince, Wallis thought it may well have been her independence of spirit and directness that "astonished, amazed and amused him."

Before the Prince met Wallis, he had been a lonely man. His parents were remote, and gave him minimal affection. The Queen's official biographer regretfully noted, "Between them, King George and Queen Mary managed to be rather unsuccessful and somewhat unsympathetic parents." The Queen "had no interest in her children as babies," and King George once confided to his friend the Earl of Derby, "My father was frightened of his mother; I was frightened by my father; and I'm damned well going to see to it that my children are frightened of me."

The Prince had few friends his age, even at the Royal Naval College and at Oxford. To all of them he was still their future king. Most of the

THE HAMILTON MINT PROUDLY PRESENTS

12 Original Works of Art by 12 Most Distinguished Sculptors
A New Limited Edition of Proof Finish Pure Silver Medals

This first edition is strictly limited to only 10,000 proof quality 1,000 grain medals in .999 fine silver.

AND what a timely and appropriate new series this is as we approach America's Bicentennial. This brilliantly conceived new collection consisting of 12 superbly crafted medals, truly captures symbolically the spirit of America and will, unquestionably, be one of the most beautiful and most desired medallic art collector series ever issued. Each medal will also be exceptionally large, 2" in diameter, so that the magnificent art may be captured and seen in great detail.

CAPTURES THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA

To create each of these original works of art masterpieces, The Hamilton Mint has chosen and commissioned twelve foremost American sculptors to create their own personal sculptured representation of "The Spirit of America." Each artist chose one facet of American heritage, strength, prestige or freedom to portray. Together, the twelve famous sculptors have fashioned a unique and truly broad artistic view of the American scene and a great new medallic art series.

A REAL TREASURY OF FINE ART

The Hamilton Mint, known for its magnificent relief sculpture, will strike each flawless proof medal in the purest and finest silver available. Each medal is extra large, almost twice our standard medal and will contain 1,000 grains of .999 fine silver. In 12 months subscribers will have amassed over 2 troy pounds of silver – (12,000 grains) – more silver than the average person accumulates in a lifetime.

The bas relief portion of each medal will have an exquisite satin finish set on a brilliant mirror perfect background. The 12 superbly crafted medals will be issued to subscribers at the rate of one a month for 12 months.

A STRICTLY LIMITED EDITION

There is an absolute limit of only one proof set per subscriber and only a total of 10,000 First Edition sets will ever be minted in .999 fine silver. To protect the integrity of the issue, The Hamilton Mint will destroy the dies once the edition limits are reached.

YOUR PERSONAL SERIAL NUMBER

Your first edition collection will be minted expressly for you and you will be assigned the lowest serial number available when your application is accepted. This is your exclusive number and will appear on every medal issued to you. The Hamilton Mint Hallmark on each medal, and a Certificate of Authenticity, will attest to the integrity of the series and to its full precious metal content.

ORIGINAL ISSUE PRICE GUARANTEE

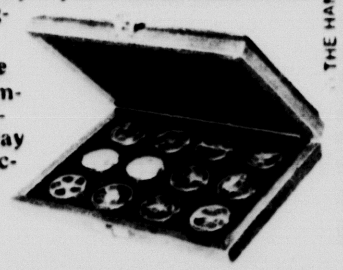
The Hamilton Mint is officially committed to deliver to you over the next 12 months, the complete set of 12 medals at the original issue price of $22.95 each, regardless of how high the price of silver and gold climbs. The Hamilton Mint does reserve the right to limit the edition below the published maximum limits, but once your application is accepted, your subscription is guaranteed.

INVESTMENT POTENTIAL

This important opportunity to acquire these valuable artistic treasures in silver and gold on silver comes at a time when prominent economists are predicting that these precious metals will continue to increase in value in the years ahead, thereby creating the potential for your collection to grow even more desirable and valuable.

PLEASE ACT PROMPTLY

Due to the strictly limited nature of this offer, we cannot accept orders that arrive after the edition limits have been reached. So please act promptly if you wish to share in the excitment of owning this magnificent collection.



A Special Collector's Case
You will receive, with our compliments, a deluxe walnut display case to protect and display your Spirit of America Collection. You will also receive a descriptive brochure about each artist and his work.

David Grossman Terra Cotta "Urchin" Figurines

Adopt a little "Urchin" this year! These adorable wee little people are from the imaginative and creative hands of world-famous sculptor-artist David Grossman

ALTHOUGH these wonderful and carefully carved terra cotta sculptures by internationally renown sculptor David Grossman have been in great demand and difficult to obtain, Joy's has just received our allotment and can send you your favorite "Urchin" immediately.

These are the same originals by David Grossman—and from the very same collection that the enchanting "Kissinger Elephant" (presented to Henry Kissinger) came from.

To truly love and appreciate your "Urchin" you must hold one in your hands and look over its innocent and appealing face. I assure you that you'll be delighted with their natural expressions and life-like poses—so characteristic of adorable children. In fact, doesn't one of the children pictured here remind you of someone you love? Mr. Grossman has been praised by many great artists, including Pablo Picasso and Norman Rockwell, for his ability to portray children so exquisitely.

ABSOLUTELY FREE

Even though prices have risen this year, we offer you these figurines at the original low prices. And, because we want you to join the thousands of Americans who have started "Urchin" collections, and because Rockwell and Grossman are so similar in their ability to capture the expressions of childhood so well—we will send you ABSOLUTELY FREE a beautiful Norman Rockwell reproduction on canvas (shown below) with every order from this ad.

PLEASE ORDER TODAY

These wonderful "Urchin" sculptures will not only grace your home with touches of elegance and originality, but may very well become the antiques and heirlooms of tomorrow. I'm so sure that you'll love them, that I guarantee if you are displeased with them for any reason whatsoever—you may send them back anytime within 20 days for a full refund. But please order today as quantities are low and orders will be filled on a first come, first served basis.

SPECIAL OFFER

Because of Mr. Grossman's love of children, he has produced a special Limited Edition Sculpture, "The Doctor and His Pal" for the Scheie Eye Institute and Joy's Limited—for fund-raising purposes. Although the Figurine (shown above) sells for $25.00—your special price from this ad is only $14.95—and for everyone sold, we will make a special donation to the Scheie Eye Institute of Philadelphia—which has restored sight to thousands of blind.

The Duke and Duchess

women in his life were casual encounters, perhaps too adoring, too agreeable, too alike. His longest lasting affairs were with two married women, the wife of the Right Honorable Dudley Ward, a bright, bubbly, petite type; and Lady Thelma Furness, more beautiful but not as bright. As she herself admitted, "We talked a great deal, but mostly about trivialities."

The fat and friendly Lord Castlerosse, who knew the

Prince well, said of him that he had an inferiority complex. His view was that Wallis had "built up her man," telling him "...you're not the fool you think you are . . . you're a grand fellow." Castlerosse also insisted, "The attraction between them is not sex." An older friend of the Prince disagreed, "Her hold over him must have been sex. She must have made him feel more vital, more masculine, more satisfying."

For the Prince of Wales, there were other things almost as important as sex. Wallis was one of the few people in the world who made him laugh, laugh out loud. Friends said that they could see him at the dinner table, leaning forward, just waiting for her to make some remark so that he could roar with laughter. The Prince found Wallis' wit and easy American laughter a rare release for him.

Something else Wallis did was to mother him. She had a delightful way of bossing him, without being coy about it—a thing that none of his British girl friends ever would have dared to do. "Don't eat that, Sir," she'd say, smiling and taking a caviar canapé out of his hand. "Have this instead." And she would give him some cream cheese on toast. She also made sure that he was dressed warmly enough when he was cold, persuaded him to cut down his smoking, and actually took a drink away from him when she felt he had had too much. He loved it. Nobody ever had cared that much for him before.

"For all the years I've known him," said one of his British friends, "I would still never dream of calling him anything but 'Sir.' She called him 'David.'" The Prince also never liked to be touched, no matter how familiar the friend. Only Wallis, and without qualm, could playfully slap his hand at a dinner table.

The Prince became a frequent visitor at the Simpson flat at Bryanston Court after his first dinner there. Wallis made her favorite Baltimore specialties, including fried chicken, black bean soup, cold raspberry soufflé (for which he took the recipe). Even more than the American food, he enjoyed the complete informality of Wallis' home, far away from British formal protocol.

All these things crystallized his decision to marry her, even if he had to abdicate the throne. When his brother George married, the Prince insisted that Wallis attend. Later, at that wedding, he rushed over to Prince Christopher, saying, "Christo, I want you to meet Mrs. Simpson."

"Who is she?" he asked.

"An American . . . she's wonderful."

A great part of the reason that Wallis Warfield Simpson was so wonderful for the Prince was the fact that she was American.

On the table in her dressing room, centered among several photographs of her David, was a framed message from him on his royal stationery:

My friend, with thee to live alone
Methinks were better than to own
A crown, a scepter,
and a throne.

Meet the Best in High School Basketball

Our Second Annual College Recruiters' Poll

While the country's strongest basketball teams are vying to see which one, if any, can succeed North Carolina State's Wolfpack as this year's collegiate national champion, another battle is raging in college basketball, this one off the courts. It's the annual recruitment contest to woo the top senior players in the high school ranks – the young centers, forwards and guards who will be the cream of the undergraduate freshman crop in college ball in 1975-76.

To compile a list of the 30 most highly prized high school basketball seniors in the U.S., FAMILY WEEKLY consulted with eight leading college-basketball coaches and recruiters. The experts we interviewed included two head coaches – Lou Carnesecca of St. John's University in New York and Jerry Pimm of the University of Utah–and recruiters Andy Russo of Jacksonville, Rick Majerus of Marquette, Eddie Biedenbach of North Carolina State, Bob King of Purdue, Don Walsh of South Carolina and Jim Hefner of the University of Southern California.

This is the second year we have run a high school basketball poll. The young man tapped as the outstanding scholastic star last year was Moses Malone, the 6-10 former center from Petersburg, Va., who afterward gained fame by leaping directly from high school ball to the ABA's Utah Stars.

Is there a Moses Malone in this year's crop of high school standouts? Our experts think not. "Of course, we've never before considered if a boy could make the pros right out of high school," says one recruiter. "Malone is the rare exception. He was by far the best high school player last year, but this year the talent is more evenly balanced."

Bill Cartwright

The FAMILY WEEKLY panel selected 12 forwards, six centers and 12 guards as the elite group of the 1974-75 high school senior corps. Because they mean so much to a basketball team, the big centers naturally come in for a major share of attention. The best big man in the country this year seems to be Bill Cartwright, a 7-foot, 218-pounder from Elk Grove (Calif.) High School, near Sacramento. "He's a fine scorer, and can run and jump," reports one recruiter. "His defensive work and rebounding still may not be as good as they should be, but he's got the great size and ability and should develop into an excellent player."

Colleges seeking a rebounding specialist are flocking to the Orlando, Fla., home of Darryl Dawkins, who attends Evans High School in that city. Dawkins is a powerfully built 6-10 and 248 pounds who regularly picks off more than 20 rebounds

by Larry Bortstein

er game and is also a good shooter from close range. Larry Gibson, the 6-10 center at Dunbar High in Baltimore, Md., is considered by many the finest defensive center in the nation. He averaged more than ten blocked shots per game a year ago, and was a key man for a club that had a two-season winning streak of 48 straight games.

Though not as naturally talented as the others, Glen Sudhop of Adams High School in South Bend, Ind., is being sought by many colleges. "Glen's seven feet tall," says Purdue's Bob King, "and of course, every school wants to get a big kid like that."

Overall, say some members of the FAMILY WEEKLY panel of basketball experts, this seems to be the year of the forward in high school ball. Marquette University of Milwaukee seems able to land outstanding forwards, and is on the trail of more. "Our coach Al McGuire likes strong, big forwards who are also quick," says Marquette recruiter Rick Majerus. "And one guy who fits the bill this year would be Bernard Toone of Gorton High in Yonkers, N.Y. To my mind, he's the top prospect in the country, regardless of position. He's 6-8, very strong, and has great body control and quickness."

Other forwards attracting considerable attention include high-scoring Bill Willoughby, a 6-8 standout at Dwight Morrow H.S. in Englewood, N.J.; Fred Eckert, 6-9, from North Judson, Ind.; Al Dutch of Carroll High in Washington, D.C., who is 6-7; and 6-8 Larry Wilson of Central LaFourche H.S. in Mathews, La. "Wilson could be the biggest 'sleeper' player in the country," says Andy Russo, Jacksonville University's recruiter. "He comes from an area that hasn't produced too much in the way of basketball players, and the competition he's faced hasn't been the best. But he looks like the genuine article. He could turn out to be tremendous."

Among the smaller forwards, our experts are high in their praise of 6-6 Winford Boynes of Capitol Hill High in Oklahoma City; 6-5 Mike Palma from St. Agnes High in Rockville Centre, N.Y.; and a 6-5 forward from Haaren High in Manhattan named Lymbert "Cheese" Johnson.

It isn't often that one high school squad boasts two equally prized senior recruits in the same season. One school in that enviable position this season is Verbum Dei H.S. of Los Angeles, which, like New York, has become a hotbed of high school ball. (Verbum Dei High was crowned unofficial national champion by a Midwest ratings service after it posted a 30-2 won-lost record in 1973-74.) The two key players have been 6-10 center David Greenwood and 6-2 guard Roy Hamilton. Neither has posted dazzling statistics, but that could be because Verbum Dei's regulars usually don't remain on the court for the entire game. But Greenwood is a solid rebounder and scorer, while Hamilton, who quarterbacks the Verbum Dei attack, is extremely quick and considered one of the top playmaking prospects in the nation. Hamilton can also score, and is very adept at stealing the ball too.

For pure shooting guards, Purdue's Bob King rates Kyle Macy of Peru (Ind.) H.S. "easily the best around." Macy is only 6-2, but his scoring average as a junior last year was nearly 36 points per game. Other topflight scholastic backcourt performers are Pat Foschi, 6-4, from Virginia, Minn., who registered one 51-point night a year ago; Brad Holland, 6-2, from Crescenta Valley of La Crescenta in Southern California; and Terry Crosby, 6-3, of DeVilbiss High in Toledo, Ohio.

Our panel of college recruiters and coaches selected the following 30 players—listed alphabetically by position—as the best high school senior basketball prospects in the nation:

The essence of faith is that we believe and make our commitment of self to God on the basis of what He reveals to us. It's God's word—God who cannot deceive or be deceived—that provides the basis for faith. Anything less than that simply does not do.

"Well, then," some will ask, "why do Catholics believe in Purgatory?" "Where is Purgatory in the Bible?" "And if it isn't in the Bible, how can it be God's word?" "And if it isn't God's word, how does it merit belief?"

Fair questions. Honest questions. Questions often asked in the kindest tones by those who are not critical but simply puzzled.

We would like to try to answer these questions, to explain in some way at least why Catholics believe in Purgatory, in this state of purification for those who die free of serious sin but not yet quite ready for heaven. Write for our new pamphlet: Purgatory, Doctrine of Comfort and Hope. No one will call on you.

VERY SPECIAL PEOPLE

The Struggles, Loves, and Triumphs of Human Oddities

As a youngster, Francesco Lentini was so shocked at what he saw in an institution for the severely handicapped that he never complained about his third leg again.

These are just a few of the many "mistakes of Nature" included in Frederick Drimmer's fascinating new book, VERY SPECIAL PEOPLE. What makes them very special is that they were all born "curiosities" and they all lived unusual lives. Like Chang and Eng, the original Siamese twins, who were joined at the chest for life. They married sisters, set up separate homes, and fathered 22 children between them!

Then there was Grace McDaniels, billed as the ugliest woman who ever lived (and her photo proves it). Believe it or not, Grace received several proposals of marriage before she accepted one from a handsome young man. They had a perfectly normal son, who grew up to be his mother's manager!

John Merrick, the grossly deformed "Elephant Man," was deserted by his heartless manager. Befriended by a kindly doctor, Merrick became quite famous and was frequently visited by Royalty.

The stories in this book are true, and we have over 65 rare photos to prove it. Never has one book been so complete. There are chapters on giants, dwarfs, fat people, armless and legless wonders, hermaphrodites (half man, half woman), bearded ladies, and numerous other human oddities.

This is not just a picture book of "freaks." The author treats these people with insight, compassion and the dignity one earns by being born different from everyone else.

VERY SPECIAL PEOPLE will also teach you one of the most important lessons that life has to offer: the incredible ability of man's mind, soul, and spirit to overcome any physical imperfection... no matter how hopeless it may appear. Read this book and you'll never indulge in self-pity again.

Only $6.95, hard covered, 412 pages, 67 photographs.

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Karl Malden:

If You Like How He Acts, You'll Like How He Is

Pictorial Parade

"We've been married for 36 years. Ask me my recipe for staying married that long and I'll tell you it's to get out of the house as much as possible."

A few years ago Karl Malden told me he would never go into television. He would never be separated from his wife. And he never expected to be a leading man. I thought about this as I drove down to the warehouse above the San Francisco docks to talk to Karl, star of the highly successful "The Streets of San Francisco" TV series.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Why did you change your mind about doing a TV series?

KARL: I could have done guest stints and "Movie of the Week," but I felt that as long as I decided to get into TV, I'd do it all the way.

FW: You once told me you could never be a leading man, but you are today. How does it feel?

KARL: Well, I am and I'm not. I'm what you'd call a character lead. I've always liked playing characters, and I've always been a character actor. Never a leading man.

FW: Why is that?

KARL: When I was young, those parts belonged to Tyrone Power and Cary Grant and Clark Gable. Maybe today a guy like me would have a better chance. Looks don't mean as much any more.

FW: Are there any similarities between the character you play on television and yourself?

KARL: I play myself in the series. I simply couldn't be any other character week after week. Which is both good and bad. If the audience likes Mike Stone, then they like me, Karl Malden. If they don't, I guess they wouldn't like me either.

FW: What characteristics do the two of you have in common?

KARL: We are both sentimentalists. But most of the mannerisms are mine.

FW: How are you getting along with Mike Douglas?

KARL: I think I'm the luckiest guy in the world. Mike is ambitious in the proper way. He is industrious about his career, intelligent, and he's mighty nice to work with. I could have gotten a guy who didn't know his lines and got ahead strictly by walking over others. We have kind of a father-son relationship. I'll kid him and he'll kid me back, in a nice way. I was lucky or unlucky, however you want to put it, in having two daughters. So now Mike is the son I never had.

FW: What are your daughters doing?

KARL: One is married. Her husband is an intern at Veterans Hospital in Los Angeles. The other one is 21 and studies English at UCLA.

FW: Have you given up your Los Angeles home?

KARL: No, I still have it, but I also have an apartment in San Francisco. After all, I live here eight months out of the year. My wife commutes. Ten days here and ten days in L.A. We've been married for 36 years. Ask me my recipe for staying married that long and I'll tell you it's to get out of the house as much as possible. I really believe that absence makes the heart grow fonder.

FW: What do you and your wife have in common?

KARL: Our children, of course. Traveling, theater, and we love to collect antiques. "Early Everything." Particularly paintings. But I only buy what I like and am not what you'd call a connoisseur. Also, I like to meet the painters whose works I buy. Except for two paintings I have, I've met all of them. Unless I know the painter, his background and feelings, his paintings are just objects to me. When I talk about his life, his work means something to me.

FW: You are off five months of the year—what do you do with your time off?

KARL: Last year I did nothing except take a few little trips to publicize the show. This year I may go to Yugoslavia to make a documentary. I'm a Yugoslav, you know. My real name was Mladen Sekulovich. But I've never been there and have always wanted to go. In a way, this documentary will be a search for my ancestors, my heritage.

FW: You used to teach quite a bit. Do you still?

KARL: Yes. I've taught in eight different universities. I think everybody should teach—except teachers. If I were President, I would make all people who are 65 and retired teach for five years so that students know the people instructing actually have a background in their subjects and have not gotten their knowledge just from book learning. Students would appreciate that. And I think most people would love the university environment.

FW: How far did you go in school?

KARL: Through high school and one month of college. Then I was kicked out.

FW: How did that happen?

KARL: Because I was good in basketball, I got an athletic scholarship. It was during the Depression days, and I was glad to get it. But I thought all I had to do was play basketball. When I got there, they said, "You have to play everything—including football." So I went out, got clobbered, and said, "No way!"—and quit.

FW: Are your parents still alive?

KARL: Yes. My mother is 82 and my father is 88. He worked in a steel mill for 11 years and then spent three decades as a milkman. He still walks three miles a day, and was very embarrassed a few years ago when he needed a cane.

FW: Has your father ever visited you in San Francisco?

KARL: No, and he never will. He's a fatalist. When he landed at Ellis Island years ago, he yearned to settle down in San Francisco. Suddenly, it was devastated by the earthquake. My father said, "It's sudbina," which means "fate" in Yugoslav. To this day, he's turned down all my invitations.

FW: You play a policeman in the series. Have you ever had a run-in with the police?

KARL: Yes, in high school. I belonged to a kind of a sports club when I was a freshman—like when we were playing basketball and needed a ball, we'd go out and "find" one. One day I was suddenly summoned to the principal's office. All the other gang members were there already, looking rather ill at ease. I'll never forget the guy sitting there, big and fat and kind of bully-like, with a badge on his vest, a gun in his belt and bullets all around his waist. He had the gall to ask me, "Do you know who I am?" Of course I knew who he was, and he knew what I'd done, or rather, what we'd all done. But he let us off with a warning never to do it again.

FW: Do you have a hero?

KARL: Yes—George Bernard Shaw.

FW: Why?

KARL: Because he was aggressive. I consider myself a Socialist, a man of the people. The more I think of myself as an actor, the more I try to be Everyman so that all the people watching me will feel that they could do what I do. That's what I'd like to be known as—Everyman.

ANNELINE KRIEL
Miss World and friend

"I was happy when she placed second. Now I'm not so happy," says Jacques Malan, constant companion to the new Miss World. "Who wants his girl friend to be Miss World?" adds Malan, who is training to become a pastor in the Dutch Reform Church. Anneline Kriel, 19, a South African, replaced Miss United Kingdom, Helen Morgan, as Miss World after it was discovered Ms. Morgan was an unwed mother, and was named as the third party in a scandalous divorce case. Anneline, however, is a bird of a different feather. "I'm a good girl. There are no skeletons in my cupboard. I do not believe in sex before marriage. And that's the way it's going to stay." Malan, 21, agrees. "She's a good Christian girl," he adds.

WALT FRAZIER
I remember, I remember

QUOTE: Walt Frazier wasn't always rich: "I remember when I was a kid of 10 or 11 and I'd wash my sneakers with soap and brush almost every night so they would be bright and white and dry by morning. I remember being very exact how I laced them up when I went to play basketball in the dirt schoolyard in Atlanta. That was when my sneakers were the hottest item in my wardrobe. I can remember how prideful I felt to wear the sneakers, and how I dug looking down and watching me walk in them. I can remember playing in that schoolyard and trying to dribble and the ball would be bouncing this way and that way off the rocks and pebbles and I'd hound the ball down. Then maybe it would bounce crazy and hit me in the nose. I can still feel that. And I can still remember that you'd have to be a magician to dribble the ball on that dirt court when it rained." From "Rocking Steady," by Walt Frazier and Ira Berkow (Warner Paperback Library, $1.50). UNQUOTE.

Formula for an instant inferno: "First, a plastic crib and mattress were ignited with a single match. In less than 60 seconds, the entire crib was in flames. The fire was almost explosive, with the production of black, dense, highly toxic smoke. After 90 seconds, flames and black smoke were gushing from the windows and doors of the room. There was no way a child could have escaped. The fire spread quickly to all other areas of the house; in five minutes the entire building was involved, in ten minutes it was practically gutted." This is how the Department of Consumer Affairs in Sacramento, Calif., described the results of a flammability test on a plastic crib. What is even more shocking: The mattress in the crib met current federal flammability standards!

Our neighbor's three-year-old son was spanked for misbehaving. With tears in his eyes and a lisp in his voice, he declared that he was going to run away from home. "What are you waiting for? Go ahead," his mother said. He replied, "You think it's so easy!"

LITTLE EMILY

Painful elimination is unnatural.

Many people have experienced the pain of dry, hard stools. And many have come to accept this, as if it were a natural part of elimination.

But there's nothing natural about it.

And Serutan makes this possible.

Serutan is the effective laxative that forms a smooth gel in the lower digestive tract, where it combines with intestinal waste to give you comfortable relief There's no strain, and no cramps. That's because Serutan, with its natural ingredients, adds the necessary moisture and bulk to work with your system for smooth, easy results.

If you suffer from painful elimination due to constipation or dry, hard stools, try Serutan. You'll be very comfortable with it.

The last time you picked strawberries – or bought them – how many did it take to make a quart? Eighty? One hundred? More? Regular strawberries are so small – most people lose count! But with this hardy variety, you can expect quarts FROM JUST 30 STRAWBERRIES! And these extra-sweet berries (Giant Robinson) are highly disease resistant, they ripen very fast, plus they produce lots of new runners to give you a bigger patch every year! Have wonderful big strawberries for jams, freezer, fresh desserts for months! Sorry, not shipped to Arizona.

ACTUAL SIZE!

CAUTION! The most frequently noted "complaint" on these marvelous berries is that most people just didn't think to order enough! Honestly, you will want at least 50 of these plants to start – even for smaller patches.
